Clark's Army In 2-Mile Gain Across Peccia

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Jan. 10 (AP)—Fifth Army forces bit deeper today into the tough defense belt of Cassino with American doughboys plunging forward in a two-mile advance northwest of the stronghold and the British crossing the Peccia river to firmly hold a bridgehead southwest of the town.

In a thrust from Mt. Maio, the Yanks battered through strong opposition and captured the 3500-foot peak of Catena Vecchio overlooking the San Vittore-Cassino road.

Clark's troops also occupied other heights preparatory to an assault on Cassino.

Americans captured 1500-foot Mt. Chiaia, south of the Cassino road, and farther south completed occupation of 900-foot Mt. Porchia, mopping up surviving Germans entrenched on the mountain's western slopes with tanks.

The Americans thus overlooked the village of Cervaro, four miles east of Cassino. Their advanced elements were two-thirds through the six-mile zone of fortifications between Cassino and San Vittore.

Doughboys who captured Mt. Chiaia continued north toward Cervaro, supported by fighter-bombers which attacked German positions.

Deep snows in the mountainous sectors of the Eighth Army front restricted fighting to patrol activity and heavy artillery and mortar fire.

The air command said a strong force of heavy bombers struck across the northern neck of the Adriatic at the naval base of Pola, on the tip of Italy's Istrian peninsula in support of Yugoslav patriots, and field dispatches disclosed for the first time Fortresses were flying from Italy.

With Lightning fighters providing protection, Fortresses dropped tons of bombs on the harbor and shipping facilities. One explosion threw flames and debris 1000 feet into the air.

Medium bombers at the same time attacked Ancona on Italy's east coast while fighter-bombers shot up trains and motor transport back of the battle line in the Aquila area. The score of aircraft destroyed during the day was even, one German plane for one Allied craft missing.

RAF night bombers struck another blow at German fighter power in northern Italy with an attack on the fighter base at Villorba, north of Venice, Saturday night.

NAZIS MASS THEIR ALL TO BAR INVASION

LONDON, Jan. 10 (INS)—Nazi propagandists filled the air with reports of an impending Allied invasion of western Europe today amid new rumors the Germans may abandon most of their occupied territory in eastern Europe, including the Balkans, and possibly part of Scandinavia.

The Nazi-controlled Paris radio said Gen. Eisenhower is "putting the final touches to a gigantic play which will be brought into action in the near future."

"British and American invasion forces are assembling along the Kent and Cornwall coasts for decisive battles of the war," this broadcast said.

"But U-boats are on the alert in the channel and are ready to pounce on the invasion fleet. German troops are manning every rock, every position, every hill and hidden bay along the edge of Fortress Europe. Their equipment includes tanks, artillery, flame-throwers and machine guns. They are waiting to repel the invader."

Von Papen Sees Turkey Kept Neutral

LONDON, Jan. 10 (INS)—Franz von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, was said today to have convinced Hitler Turkey can be kept neutral through diplomatic means.

The Daily Express, in an Istanbul dispatch, declared Allied and neutral diplomats in Ankara were agreed Turkish neutrality during coming weeks depends almost entirely on Von Papen's decision.

Northern France Pounded Again

LONDON, Jan. 10 (INS)—Enemy targets in northern France were kept under assault in daylight yesterday when RAF and Canadian fighters carried out offensive patrols, an air ministry communique said today.

R. I. Father Of 9 in Army

His total Army allotment for himself, his wife and family, will be $268 a month, not as much as the $75 to $80 he earned in an 88-hour week in the Glenlyon print works.

The children range from four to 14, and Mrs. Cute said she felt a $40 a week grocery bill and "buying shoes practically every day for one of the children" made the immediate financial future bleak.

Cute's hours may be a little easier in the Army, however. At the print plant he worked fro m7 a. m. to 11 p. m. four days a week and then did a 24-hoour trick—Friday 7 a. m. to Saturday 7 a. m.

"Except that my children will know I won't be arouond the house, I guess my being in the Army won't make much difference as to seeing their daddy," he explained.

Vatutin Nears Bug River Line

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, Jan. 10 (AP) — Spearheads of Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's First Ukrainian army plunged within 15 miles of the Bug river today, and neared Vinnitsa, rail city on the Bug serving as the main control point for German communications to the Dnieper bend.

Other Vatutin units slashing southward sent deeper one jaw of a possible trap for thousands of Germans in the Smela Gap, a Nazi-held zone in the rear extending east to the Dnieper river.

This southward drive was pushing toward a junction with Gen. Ivan S. Konev's Second Ukrainian army, advancing west through Alexandrovka above Kirovograd.

Farther north, the Soviets were within five miles of Sarny, 35 miles inside old Poland.

(The Berlin radio said Russian units had reached Sarny.)

ON WARSAW RAILWAY

Vatutin's western advance guards seized Zhornische, 15 miles from a bend of the Bug river, 30 miles southeast of Vinnitsa and 33 miles from the Odessa-Warsaw railway.

The Bug river, a natural defense line, is the eastern border of Transnistria, the Soviet area awarded to Rumania by the Germans.

Other units pushed through Schastlivaya, 19 miles east of Vinnitsa itself, threatening to cut the most important east-west railway left the Germans in the Ukraine.

Vatutin's army was engaged in a complicated maneuver, pressing west even while driving to the south, and mopping up areas to the rear.

Capture of Sarny, a junction on the Wilno-Rovno line, would force the Germans to rely for north-south communications on railways meeting at Brest-Litovsk, 130 miles farther west. The Odessa-Warsaw railway, on which the Russians were advancing from captured Zhornishche, is the main escape line for German troops in Southern Russia.

Stockholm dispatches describing the German retreat as "almost chaotic," quoted German military spokesmen in Berlin as admitting that their armies were fleeing during a desperate battle upon which "the outcome of the whole war depends."

CAUGHT IN POCKET

The Germans also faced disaster in a wide pocket west of the Dnieper river as the first and second Ukrainian Red armies—the first pushing south through Buki and the other driving west through Alexandrovka—narrowed the jaws of a possible trap to less than 75 miles. A junction of the two armies would close a ring around the Germans in the Smela gap in an area 80 miles deep running back to the right bank of the Dnieper.

On their entire front yesterday the armies of Gen. Nikolai F. Vatutin and Ivan S. Konev swept up 110 more towns and hamlets, killed 2300 Germans in two actions alone and captured huge RUSSIA—Great German disaster rises in Russia, with Reds pushing within five miles of (1) Sarny. The Berlin radio said Red troops had reached Sarny. Other units near (2) Vinnitsa, after taking Zhorishche, and the Ukrainian army sweeps through Alexandrovka toward Smela Gap.

Blast Airfields In Rabaul Area

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Jan. 10 (AP)—Bitter ground fighting is raging in northwestern New Britain, with Allied bombers supporting the United States Marines' renewed push to clear the Japanese from the Borgen bay area near Cape Gloucester.

Bombers concentrated 58 tons of explosives on enemy forward positions, Gen. MacArthur's communique said today. A headquarters spokesman said the battle was resumed Friday after a lull, and the high command announced the Marines had reached Hill 660, in an advance of a mile and three-quarters.

Hill 660, an artillery observation point, is south of Silimati point where Marines landed Dec. 26.

Patrol clashes also were reported in the hills in the airdrome area farther west. Marines captured the airdrome Dec. 30, four days after the invasion began.

Bombers and fighters of the South Pacific Command struck enemy installations at Cape St. George on the southern tip of New Ireland, across narrow St. George channel from Rabaul.

At least 10 Japanese interceptors were shot down, and probably two others. Six of our planes were lost.

Bombers struck also at the airdromes of Rabaul itself. Liberators bombed Vunakanau airdrome in the morning and Australian Beaufoorts pounded Lakunai and Tobera airdromes at night. The areas were left aflame, the communique said.

In raids in the preceding 15 days more than 196 Japanese planes have been downed in the Rabaul area.

In the battle of Arawe peninsula, New Britain, Boston attack planes obliterated the Japanese-held village of Didmop.

Australian ground forces meanwhile met opposition in their push northwestward on the Huon peninsula of New Guinea.

Tito Forces In Big Battle

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP)—Yugoslav Partisan headquarters announced today the forces of Marshal Tito are engaged in heavy fighting in western and central Bosnia to break up an attempted five-pronged German drive into Partisan territory.

A broadcast communique said the general Nazi offensive, first disclosed yesterday, was employing infantry, motorized and tank units. The fighting centers around Banja Luka, from which the Partisans were forced to withdraw last week.

Jap Yangtze Ships Bombed by Yanks

Their View Of Our War

By AUSTEN LAKE

ON U. S. CONVOY TO BRITAIN (Delayed)—The sky is a ceiling of dirty soap suds, the sea a shifting plane of marine mountains and watery valleys into which our ships, seen through the haze as gray ghosts, wallow with jaws dripping.

A bleak December rain slants along the decks in swift lateral strokes like the penmanship of an old schoolmaster, pelting against the troops' steel helmets and running from their G. I. waterproofs in glistening rivulets. For the soldiers, those who are now nursing nausea, prefer the lesser discomfort of the open air to the cramped, smelly and dimly-lit quarters below decks where every foot of space is converted to makeshift billets, even the hatchway hoists.

There is little left of the original, pre-war fittings of this (censored) liner which used to carry the leisured on curiosity cruises. All the soft blandishments of civil life are gone. The promenade deck where male dudes and their crinoline judies used to stroll to marimba music are studded with armored gun mounts. Only the basic hardware is left, and the men stand interminably for their two-a-day chow—just breakfast and supper. They eat thinly of crude cooking (the cuisine is lease-lend British), and sleep in rotating shifts between the deck and bunks, of which there are not enough to go around.

It is livable temporary ordeal that leads on to other temporary ordeals. For the seasoned soldier learns to collect his todays and pawn his tomorrows. There is the usual grumbling and griping, in the picturesque profanities of the Army, which amounts almost to literature. For griping on a transport like this one is a healthy exhalation of internal poisons. There is also a share of rough philosophy.

See Europe on Cuff

"Aw," snorted Cpl. Fred E. Wilkinson of Winthrop st., Roxbury. "It's stuff to tell our children. I suffered worse on Fourth o' July trips to Nantasket . . ."

"And anyway," agreed Cpl. Arthur Levine of Bullard st., Dorchester, "we're seeing Europe on the cuff. I'll take Codman sq."

There is nothing like a troopship to reconcile a man to boredom. The submarine scare wears off, and leaves the range of available fun to the wisecrack, dice, cards and a smoke—and the smokes, I might report, are 50 cents the standard carton, or 5 cents the pack—which gives some notion of the government's chew in hidden taxes. At that rate the boys can afford to turn their lungs into furnaces.

Thus the smallest antic and the corniest joke acquires an artificial punch. During the writer's search along the crowded decks for New Englanders, a youngster with a pixie puss and an American-cockney twang asked, "Hey, what about Brooklyn?"

"Yuh, said 'er," answered a nearby lad with a Bronx burr, "I allurs thought that place was a jerk jernt 'till I spent four days there (censored). Now I'm selling it to everybody—but cheap."

The result was like fun among the field mice. A convulsion swept the deck like a brush fire and many a lad laughed who didn't hear the rude jape, just for the wish to be gay.

America? It's LIFE!

On a boat like this, one gets the intrinsic worth of U. S. soldiers. They have a new set of social values as truly as though they got 'em by G. I. from the quartermaster. For example, I asked Pvt. Timothy Crispo of Lowell st., Somerville, what he was fighting for—America? He said: "I guess so But America to me isn't like a big colored map in a geography book.

Clerks to Read F. D. Message

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—President Roosevelt on the advice of his physician will send his annual message to Congress at noon tomorrow rather than deliver it in person, but he will broadcast a shortened version to the country tomorrow night.

Mr. Roosevelt arranged a conference late today with congressional leaders, Vice-President Wallace, Speaker Rayburn, Senate Majority Leader Barkley and House Majority Leader McCormack.

The President was expected to discuss with them the business ahead of the new session, which is confronted with a pair of legislative deadlines and a number of other provocative issues.

Still shaking off vestiges of illness—White House officials described it today as influenza—Mr. Roosevelt was keeping all his engagements today in the White House proper. Sec. Early said the President's physician, Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire, saw the Chief Executive this morning and asked him not to go before Congress in person tomorrow and run the risk of a possible recurrence of his illness.

Consequently, the annual message will be read by clerks.

At 9:30 p. m. Mr. Roosevelt will broadcast a resume of the message, compressed into a half-hour of radio time.

The annual budget estimates for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1945, will be submitted to Congress Thursday noon. Mr. Roosevelt has followed a practice of going over the budget in advance with reporters, but this year he assigned the budget seminar to Harold Smith, the budget director, and his assistant, Wayne Coy.

Missing Dad Found as Son Is Born Here

All was serenity and happiness in the Thornton household in Highland st., Hyde Park, today, after a hectic, topsy-turvy weekend in which bad news and good news broke so swiftly relatives could hardly keep pace with it.

It started with that saddest of all messages: "We regret to inform you . . ." The information was that Lieut. Daniel P. Thornton, 22, was missing in action in the India-China-Burma area, where he has been serving with the Air Forces for several months.

Fortunately for his wife, the former Alice Warren of Dorchester, the message was not given her immediately. Less than an hour after it was received she was rushed to Carney Hospital maternity ward.

Sunday afternoon Mrs. Thornton gave birth to a baby boy. Shortly after this good news along came a telegram from the War Department announcing that Lieut. Thornton had landed in friendly territory and was safe.

The proud young mother does not know yet about her husband's experiences, but relatives plan to tell her today. And they plan, too, to cable the downed flier that he is the father of a healthy, husky son.

Lieut. Thornton is the son of Mrs. Anna Thornton and the late Daniel P. Thornton, for many years an employe of the food division of the Boston Health Department.

Lake Finds Old Friends on Ship Bound Overseas

Austen Lake, aboard ship, is ordered on the garbage dumping detail, he reveals in tomorrow's story. He doesn't like it until he discovers it's all a huge joke played by an old friend, Capt. John P. English, of Stoneham's well-known Englishes.

There's a tough winter sea for the convoy but the New England lads carry on well—fighting men from Brookline, Everett, Auburndale, Lowell, East Boston, Newton, Arlington, Dedham, Cambridge, Dorchester, South Boston and Fitchburg.

Lake names them, pictures them, sends along their stories and their messages home in tomorrow's story.

Follow his reports in tomorrow's Boston American for news of your boy or your friends who may be Berlin-bound.

No War Service If in Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—President Roosevelt instructed the Secretaries of War and Navy today that members of Congress "may not serve in the active components of the armed services."

Mr. Roosevelt said in a formal statement Atty.-Gen. Biddle had advised him the Constitution forbids simultaneous service in the armed forces and in Congress.

Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early said in issuing his instructions the President was closing out a matter that had been dragging along for some time. A number of members of Congress have gone into uniform, although some have given up their seats to do so.

Films, Parties Brighten Life on Hospital Ship

By JACK MAHON

AN EAST COAST PORT, Jan. 10 (INS)—If that lad of yours—or maybe he's just a friend—is wounded and on his way home on a hospital ship, don't worry. He's in good hands.

Associated Press Wirephoto

MEET THE SERGEANT'S SERGEANT—Sergt. Edward O. Pendelton of Rockland, Me., and his bride, the former Irene Zehner, a WAC sergeant from Santiago, Cal., join forces for wedding cake maneuvers following their marriage at Buffalo, N. Y.

We can state that proudly and positively for we have just completed the last leg of a journey on a ship of mercy returning battle casualties of North Africa, Sicily, and Italy.

For the first time, this week, the press was permitted to board a U. S. Army hospital ship as it approached port. We saw boys with every type of injury lying on their cots and went through the S. S. Acadia, from top to bottom, to marvel at the skill, efficiency and equipment of its staff.

There were all kinds of patients aboard. Hundreds of litter cases; several bad mental cases; the common neurotic and many ambulatory cases.

Lieut.-Col. Thomas B. Protzman said he had 776 casualties on his list this time, his second voyage from the European theater.

ENJOY MOVIE SHOWS

This ship, and all our hospital ships, has a dual purpose. To bring our casualties back safely and to cure them mentally and physically of their wounds of war. Movies, three or four nights a week (the Atlantic obliging); amateur nights; a Red Cross library and a Christmas party were all part of the program.

Christmas came to the torn and the maimed, too, on the high seas. The Red Cross saw to that. Though many of the boys had to be helped down stairs to see it, they had a real Christmas tree complete with lights, and a Santa to hand out the presents.

Lieut. Viola Potter, Portland, Me., one of the Army nurses being evacuated for a rest from the battlefront, said:

"We had a lovely Christmas. The tree was on "B" deck and on Christmas Eve one of the Red Cross staff played Santa Claus and gave out gift boxes. These contained playing cards, candy, chewing gum and the like."

BOYS LINE RAILS

Now there was a great deal of moving to the outer deck and the sound of revelry. The rails soon were lined with boys on crutches and boys with canes; boys with bandaged arms and legs and, fortunately, only a few with patches over eyes that never more would see.

Soon the gangplanks were up and in a few moments the cautious parade of casualties from ship to shore began. Buses and ambulances and a large staff of especially trained corpsmen were on hand to aid the boys as they filed off and were greeted by cheers and wisecracks from those lining the decks above them.

The Acadia, once pride of Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., was the first Army vessel of World War II to be designated a hospital ship. She was turned over to U. S. Maritime Commission in 1939 to make a hurried trip to Europe and evacuate Americans.

TINY PARENTS' BABY BORN—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clough have added a new chapter to parenthood at a Denver hospital. The four-foot tall wife is a mother now . . . and here she holds 4½-pound Robert up to his proud four-foot three-inch father. Clough, an aircraft worker, predicts big things for his son.

Thousands Watch Jordan Bond Parade

Up and down Beacon Hill and through streets of the shopping district, the "Tribute to the Unconquerables" parade wound today under a bright winter sky, as a joint honoring of heroic men and women of war-torn nations and a prelude to the Fourth War Loan drive.

The parade, sponsored by Jordan Marsh Co. and the Saturday Evening Post, was viewed by thousands along the sidewalks as the marchers, some in costumes of their native lands and led by Gen. Claire Chennault's colorful Rangoon Ramblers, trod the chill pavements.

In line were representative delegations of Russians, Greeks, Poles, Dutch, Chinese, Czechoslovakians, Norwegians, Belgians and people of other countries which have felt the heel of the Nazi conqueror in this World War II, but have steadily struggled to win back freedom.

REVIEWED AT CITY HALL

Starting at Charles and Beacon sts., the parade climbed up Beacon, past the State House, to School st., was reviewed again at City Hall and turned right into Washington st.

At the Jordan Marsh Co. store, as each native delegation arrived, a window dedicated to that country was unveiled and representatives of the honored nation halted briefly.

From Washington st. the parade went up Temple pl. to Tremont st., to Boylston st., to Park sq. and to Columbus ave. and the disbanding point.

In line, in addition to representatives of the unconquerable countries, were soldiers, marines, WACs, WAVES and SPARS and some 60 motorized vehicles and ordnance, as well as several bands.

PAPPAS MARSHAL

Chief marshal of the parade was Thomas A. Pappas associate director of the War Finance of Massachusetts. Honorary marshals were Gov. Saltonstall, Mayor Tobin, Maj.-Gen. Kenneth T. Blood, U. S. A., commanding the New England sector; Maj.-Gen. Sherman Miles, commanding the First Service Command; Rear-Admiral R. A. Theobold, commanding the First Naval District; Col. Harold C. Pierce of the Marines; Comdr. W. N. Derby of the Coast Guard and Frank Glynn of Jordan Marsh Co.

In the State House reviewing stand were Gov. Saltonstall, Lieut.-Gov. Cahill, Adjt.-Gen. William J. Keville, Marine Capt. Reginald S. Ward, Edward R. Mitton, head of Jordan Marsh Co.; Lieut.-Col. Harry A. Mapes, Army; Maj. Richard F. O'Neil of the Governors' staff, Capts. Ann Cowan and Elizabeth Stearns of the WACs, Lieut. Harriet Parker, WAVES; Lieut. Mary Morton SPARS, and Asst. Atty.-Gen. James Farley.

Among those on the City Hall reviewing stand were Mayor Tobin, James H. Fairclough, vice-president of Jordan Marsh Co.; several members of the city council; Charles A. Coyle, secretary to the Mayor, and William J. O'Donnell, city messenger.

The parade marked the opening of "Tribute to the Unconquerables" week at Jordan Marsh Co. Each day one of the unconquerable countries will be honored, with Greece having her day from 3 to 4 p. m. today in the store's fifth floor annex.

Somerville Youth Lost on Augustine

A Somerville mother, who had clung to the belief her son may have been one of the survivors of the sinking of the U.S.S. St. Augustine, today saw her hopes shattered by a Navy Department announcement that her boy was among those lost off the New Jersey coast.

John Talma, 23, of Meacham rd., was one of the five Bay State men known dead in the sinking of the St. Augustine Thursday. And his mother, Mrs. Katherine Talma, who was at home today from her job at the Boston Navy Yard, Charlestown, had only the memory of his recent visit home this Christmas to console her.

John, who loved Navy life, enlisted in the reserves when he was 16. A graduate of Western Junior High, Somerville, he went to the Diesel Engineering School, Boston, before he became a boilermaker, first class, on the St. Augustine.

Thirty-seven more bodies of victims of the collision have been recovered, it was learned today. The family of the skipper, Lieut.-Comdr. Parker C. Hatch, USN, of Hingham, said "they presumed he was lost."

Families of the following men were notified they had lost their lives in the collision between the St. Augustine, a converted luxury yacht, and a still unidentified merchant vessel:

Lieut. George S. Tiffany, USNR, of Hart st., Beverly Farms.

Chief Petty Officer Charles F. Fitzpatrick, 42, USN, of Nantasket ave., Hull.

Seaman 1/c Robert Jason, of Cushing rd., Cohasset.

Chief Gunner's Mate Robert D'Entremont, 25, of Kittredge st., Roslindale.

Lieut. Tiffany's widow, Mrs. Hortense Clark Tiffany, said a requiem mass will be celebrated for her husband at St. Cecilia's Church, Back Bay, Wednesday at 11 a. m.

Typhus Epidemic Hits Nazis in Far North

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 10 (AP)—Norwegian legation sources said today a serious outbreak of typhus in Kirkenes, chief German base in the far north, had forced the Germans to isolate the area to prevent the fever from spreading to other fronts.

The Germans themselves reported a 100 per cent increase in cases of grippe in Denmark and said diphtheria and scarlet fever also were spreading rapidly. Southern Jutland was especially affected, Danish informants said, indicating the diseases might be spreading from Germany.

BAY STATERS WED IN SOUTH—Two Massachusetts sailors who were school-day chums take their pre-war sweethearts as brides in a double wedding at Charleston, S. C. The couples are (l. to r.) Donald W. Kearsley and his bride, the former Ruth Dalton, both of Mendon, and Harold H. Hoglund of Hopedale, and his bride, the former Barbara Rawson of Uxbridge.

Gull, Maine Train, In Crash, None Hurt

LINCOLN, Me., Jan. 10—The Gull, Maine Central train running from Boston to Halifax with 175 passengers, was in a rear-end collision here today with two light locomotives and a caboose. None of the passengers or train crew was injured.

The forward locomotive of the three-unit train struck the Gull as it was pulling out of this station, damaging the rear vestibule of a sleeping car and breaking steam pipes. Forty passengers in three sleepers were removed to coaches for warmth. The Gull proceeded after an hour.

Ration-Free Shoes For Men Overseas

Swing to Full Year Discharge Pay for Vets

By FRANK REILLY
Boston American Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—Congress reconvened today unamimous in a decision that mustering-out pay must be speedily voted for discharged servicemen but still undecided in what amount.

The real fight on the floor of the House is scheduled for tomorrow, with a growing number of congressmen holding out for nothing less than a full year's pay for every veteran.

Leader in this fight is Rep. William Lemke of North Dakota, who gathered his supporters — now more than 60— and awaited the long-promised report of Andrew J. May, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee.

PROMISE REPORT

This report of a bill for mustering-out pay definitely has been promised for tomorrow, but there was not the slightest indication what it would be. Observers forecast, however, that a trip home over the holidays and a talk with constituents has convinced committee members that the $300 administration bill figure will find support by but very few.

There were even reports that May's committee might attempt to incorporate provisions of the American Legion bill, filed in both the Senate and the House, which is scheduled for submission today. It provides a top payment of $500.

But in any event, it was certain that Rep. Lemke, backed by many New Englanders, would be fighting on the floor for a year's pay provision when the vote finally comes up.

"I believe things are looking better for the veteran now than ever before," Lemke said.

"If the Military Affairs Committee brings out an inadequate bill, we shall fight to amend it and I believe we can. We will pass an amendment for a year's pay. If that amendment cannot pass, we shall demand that the American Legion's mustering-out pay provisions are the minimum we can accept.

DEMANDS SPEED

"There are many provisions asked by the Legion, such as unemployment compensation, loans for purchase of homes and farms and education funds, but it is imperative that mustering-out pay be voted at once. The other matters can come as soon as it is humanly possible."

The mustering-out pay schedule of the Legion measure provides for payment on discharge of $500 for 18 months or more of service; $400 for less than 18 months but more than 12 months; $300 for less than 12 but more than six months; $200 for less than six but more than three months, and $100 for less than six months.

RANKIN BILL UP

The House is also expected to vote on the Rankin resolution centering all veterans' legislation in the World War veterans' committee. This legislation is scattered through various committees. Cong. John Rankin of Mississippi, who is chairman of the World War veterans' committee, said he would not interfere with the House military affairs committee's handling of the mustering-out pay bill.

Rankin announced that his committee would begin hearings as speedily as possible on the Legion's "omnibus bill." Sponsors of the bill in the Senate will be Sens. Bennett Champ Clark, Missouri; David I. Walsh, Massachusetts; Scott Lucas, Illinois; Hattie Caraway, Arkansas; C. Wayland Brooks, Illinois; Alexander Wiley, Wisconsin, and Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., Massachusetts.

In the House the Legion bill will be sponsored by Rep. Rankin; Edith Nourse Rogers, Massachusetts, ranking Republican member of the World War veterans' committee; Walter C. Phoeser of Missouri and another Democratic member.

LONE MEDFORD DRAFTEE GETS REAL SENDOFF

For the first time since his marriage seven years ago, a 27-year-old Medford draftee left his family today—but the parting from his wife and 4-year-old boy at North Station was eased by the thoughtfulness of Medford's mayor.

Leo McCarron, 27, of Boston ave., West Medford, former bus driver for the Boston El, was inducted Dec. 9, and planned to leave with 16 other Medford boys for Ft. Devens last Tuesday.

Because of his 27-year-old wife's illness, however, he was granted an extension until today, and had to start out on his Army career alone.

Mayor Walter E. Lawrence, who gives each group a royal sendoff, did not fail the McCarron family. All that was lacking were the usual band and speeches at Medford City Hall.

The mayor with his secretary, Clarence Hill, state commander of the Disabled American Veterans, picked up Mr. and Mrs. McCarron and their little son, Leo, Jr., and took them to City Hall to have a family photograph taken, which the city gives to each family of an inductee.

Then they presented McCarron with cigarettes, candy, and a $5 bill from the mayor's pocket—treated them to a big breakfast, drove them to the train and then returned the wife and child safely to their home.

"It makes leaving the folks a lot easier," said McCarron. "It makes me glad I can leave them at home in a patriotic city like Medford."

Snubs to Vet Cripple Prompt Taxi Probe

New complaints against the "short haul" taxi racket and dictatorial cab drivers poured in to police today as aftermath of refusal of three drivers to take a crippled Army sergeant from South Station to Dorchester.

With the disclosure by Sergt. Rene Normand, 35, of Brooklyn, N. Y., on crutches through wounds received in Italy, that three cab drivers turned him down in near-zero weather, Capt. Frank McNabb, head of the hackney carriage bureau, revealed the complaint of a sailor who was refused a ride to Hingham from South Station.

"The cab driver said he was too tired and hungry to make the trip," said McNabb. "But it was probably because he didn't want to make the long trip, when fatter tips can be had on short city hauls."

Normand, whose complaints prompted an investigation of taxi operations, will attempt to identify the three men who refused to drive him. His legs paralyzed, the vet said a cab starter advised him to take a street car.

The incident was termed by Police Commr. Sullivan an indictment against Boston.

More than 25 drivers have already had their licenses revoked for overcharging and refusing to take fares out of the "short haul" sections of the city.

As part of the drive to halt high-handed methods of cab drivers, Capt. McNabb has ordered his taxi inspectors to operate on 24-hour duty, with the bureau open all hours to hear complaints.

Sir Anthony, who was 56 and unmarried, had been in the consular service almost all his life, and had gone to Baltimore prior to returning to England on sick leave.

Congress To Rush On Taxes, Subsidies

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—Congress reassembled today with two deadlines staring members in the face and pressure mounting for action on half a dozen other legislative problems.

By Feb. 17, the lawmakers must decide what to do about food subsidies, and the Commodity Credit Corporation, which administers them. Stopgap legislation enacted just before the holiday recess extended the life of CCC until that date.

Less than two weeks later, by March, a decision must be reached on the social security payroll tax rates, frozen by emergency legislation at their present level of 1 per cent each on employers and employes for the first two months of this year. Without the legislation, the tax would have advanced automatically to 2 per cent on Jan. 1.

WAIT FOR PRESIDENT

The Senate Finance Committee adopted an amendment to the pending $2,275,600,000 tax increase bill extending the freeze throughout 1944, and Chairman George (D.) of Georgia announced it would get first consideration when the revenue measure is called up—possibly tomorrow.

The program for the week still was up in the air pending knowledge of when the President's annual message on the state of the union would be delivered.

A practical system of absentee voting for servicemen at home and overseas is one of the most pressing problems. Ballots must be printed and shipped months ahead of the November election, and if the states are to be called upon for enabling legislation, their lawmakers must have time to draft and pass the necessary bills.

OFFER SHORT-CUT

Senators Lucas (D.) of Illinois and Green (D.) of Rhode Island think they have a short-cut solution in a federal ballot system. A similar plan is backed by Chairman Worley (D.) of Texas of the House elections committee. However, the Senate already has approved a leave-it-to-the-states resolution, which will be considered by the House committee along with Worley's proposal tomorrow. Lucas' substitute will be considered by the Senate privileges and elections committee Wednesday.

House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts predicts that some sort of workable voting machinery will be set up, but he has not announced which plan he will back.

Scores of jobs now are filled by Air-WACS in air fields in this country and overseas and Boston women who are eligible for such service are especially invited to the Symphony Hall concert. Thousands more are needed to take over jobs as weather observers, meteorologists and administrative workers.

stores of war material, a Soviet communique announced.

The Russians took Polonnoe, just inside Kaments Podolsk Province bordering Rumania, in an advance of 50 miles west of Zhitomir which brought them within 22 miles of Shepetovka, a junction on the Korosten-Tarnapol and Berdichev-Fovno lines.

Koney's second army encountered stiff opposition around recaptured Kirovograd, but occupation of Alexandrovka, 35 miles to the north, helped straighten the front. They also cleared the Germans from 40 other localities.

A communique said that in an unspecified sector of the second Ukranian front the Germans launched several counter-attacks.

Bessarabia Clears Way For Troops Rushing East

ISTANBUL, Jan. 10 (AP)—Premier Ion Antonescu of Rumania was reported today to have ordered the governor of Bessarabia to clear refugees from all roads and railways leading into the interior of Rumania in order to facilitate movement of troops.

Antonescu was said to have acted after receiving a sharp complaint from the German minister, Baron Manfred von Killinger, that refugees fleeing from the Russian advance toward the Rumanian border were clogging communication lines.

Nazis Hint Retreat From Balkans Planned

LONDON, Jan. 10 (INS)—Nazi quarters continued today to circulate suggestions German troops may be forced to abandon much of the occupied territory in eastern Europe, including the Balkans, and possibly part of Scandinavia.

The propaganda campaign possibly may be a prelude to announcing further losses on the Russian front and in the Polish Ukraine to the home front, or it may have the purpose of attempting to hoodwink the Allies.

Germans Plan to Wreck Warsaw, Kill Poles

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Polish underground radio said today German plans for evacuation of Warsaw provide for destruction of the former capital's industries and communications and the deportation to Germany of all Poles capable of work.

The broadcast, which was heard by the Polish telegraph agency, appealed to underground forces to resist deportation.

It added, all Poles considered capable of leading an uprising were to be shot with their families.

Burial will be Thursday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Peter's Church, Bowdoin st., Dorchester.

Separate Rationing Of Butter Ruled Out

By ERWIN D. SIAS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (INS)—An OPA spokesman said today it would be impossible to ration butter separately despite growing shortages of the food item and pleas from sections of the dairy industry to create a new butter rationing plan.

Although OPA has considered such action, officials agree it would put an unbearable burden on retailers, the spokesman declared. Butter is rationed in the same program with meats, fats and oils.

In another development on the food front, meanwhile, the War Food Administration announced civilians would get more jams, jellies, marmalades and fruit butter in 1944, although the supply will have more citrus fruit ingredients than before.

WFA said civilians would get 416 million pounds of all types jams, jellies and spreads, including 56 million pounds of jam; 200 million of jellies; 110 million of marmalade and about 50 million of apple butter. This is about 69 per cent of the total pack—the rest going to the armed forces, lend-lease and other claimants.

In commenting on butter rationing, the OPA spokesman said latest consumption figures disclose Wisconsin used an average of 20 pounds per capita each year, while in Alabama the figure drops to about one-half pound a year.

Short butter supplies have been hard hit by lowering of pork ration points, he also declared. Many people who normally would buy pork with their coupons are using the extras for butter instead, causing a drain on the butter supply.

'World WPA' Plan Seen by GOP Chief

CHICAGO, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Mackinac declaration is "the only concrete and comprehensive" statement on American foreign policy by leaders of any party, Chairman Harrison E. Spangler of the Republican national committee said today.

In an address prepared for delivery to a conference of national committeemen and state chairmen, Spangler asserted the Mackinac declaration, which stated the United States must assume its full responsibility in world affairs and co-operate with other nations in securing world peace, "is today the only concrete and comprehensive statement of American foreign policy promulgated by the leaders of any party.

SEES WORLD WPA

"To this time the present Administration has not offered to the people any such declaration. The foreign policy of the Administration has not been declared in direct and simple terms. From the statements of the Vice-President and others it would appear there are influences in the Administration which would establish a world-wide WPA at our expense."

Spangler sharply challenged President Roosevelt's attempt to label Democrats as the "Win the War" party, contending "today this country is Republican rather than Democratic. But our Army and Navy are neither Republican nor Democratic. They are Americans. 'Win the War' is a slogan that belongs to all of us.

SAYS IT'S TOO LATE

"The term New Deal is now an embarrassment. Some other catchphrase is to be devised in an effort to hold together that strange combination of federal office holders, corrupt municipal bosses, and revolutionary radicals which now comprise the remnants of the New Deal party. It is too late."

Today's formal session of the committee was expected to select Chicago as the 1944 convention city, and to set June 25 as the date. Preliminaries will be concluded tonight at a dinner at which Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, will speak.

Harry Hopkins Has Influenza

Maine Murder Probe Speeded

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 10—A 47-year-old Bath shipyard worker was held here today as police and medical authorities pushed a probe of the fatal shooting of Thelma Nicholas, 23, of Dover-Foxcroft, found dead in a wilderness camp at Raymond only a few feet from her two sleeping children.

A single bullet had pierced the woman's skull.

Although the parents of the victim said they believed she had been married for two years to the man now held as a suspect, Cowan referred to her as Miss Nicholas and disclosed the man has been married for many years to a Bath woman and has a son who is a lieutenant in the Army.

Wife's V-Mail Yank's Headache

By HAL BOYLE

AN AMERICAN BOMBER BASE IN MEDITERRANEAN, Jan. 2 (delayed) (AP)—V-mail is widely used by the troops because it is supposed to get to its destination more quickly, but it is also one of the most cursed inventions of the war.

Soldiers complain because the V-mail letter form is too brief and impersonal.

"It just does not seem like a letter from home," they say.

It also results in some funny complications.

That is why the sergeant at present is sorely puzzled. Page 2 of his wife's most recent letter begins "As I was telling you in page number one, I insured my left arm for $720."

Unfortunately, page one has not arrived.

"I can hardly wait until it gets here," Smith said. "I can't figure why she wanted to insure her arm for $720 anyway. I should think she would insure her right arm. She's right-handed."

This is the second time his letters from home have had a continued in the next chapter scene. A page from a previous letter ended "so I wobbled down the hospital corridor from one side to another. Then I fainted."

The sergeant, a short, jolly soldier who was city editor of the Garnett, Kan., Review before he entered the Army, was really alarmed. For days he worried. Then the next page turned up and he learned his wife had been acting as a nurse's aide and had been momentarily ill while assisting in an operation.

"You don't need to read magazine serials as long as you are getting V-mail," said the sergeant, "there's suspense in every letter."

Planned Rout

NEW YORK (AP)—Reichsmarshal Goering began shortening the German conception of the Ukraine's importance as a "bread basket" in keeping with the enforced "German military strategy of shorter defense lines in the east."

Goering's newspaper, Essener National Zeitung, conceded that "it is wrong to say that areas we have given up have been of no value," but hastened to insist that the territory's loss had been planned."

Nancy Oakes' Riches Tied up, Needs Cash

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 10 (AP)—Nancy Oakes de Marigny, en route to Nassau, says Bahamian authorities have refused to allow her to take out of that country any of her own money or that willed to her by her father, Sir Harry Oakes.

Sir Harry's will directed that she be paid monthly $1000 in United States money.

Mrs. De Marigny's husband, Alfred, was charged with the murder of Sir Harry last July but was acquitted by a jury in the Bahamas Supreme Court. The jury recommended his deportation, and De Marigny and Nancy now live in Havana.

"I'm entirely without my own funds," Mrs. De Marigny said here last night. "I need medical treatment and living expenses. I am hopeful this situation can be straightened out during my trip home."

She is a Bahamian citizen.

Mrs. de Marigny said she planned to auction her household furnishings in Nassau.

She said she had little hopes of a new investigation which might solve the murder of her wealthy father.

6 Yards Rush Landing Boats

Six Greater Boston shipyards are building landing craft for the big invasions scheduled this year, the Navy disclosed today, adding that hundreds of New England concerns are manufacturing parts required in the invasion vessels.

The yards and the type of landing craft they are building were listed by the Navy as follows: Bethlehem-Hingham at Hingham, landing ship, tank; Bethlehem Shipbuilding, Fore River plant, landing ship, tank; George Lawley & Sons, Neponset, landing craft, infantry; Hood Rubber Co., Inc., Watertown, landing craft, rubber; Boston Navy Yard, landing ship, tank; W. A. Robinson, Inc., Ipswich, landing craft, mechanized.

The Navy's huge landing craft construction program, as revealed by Under Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal, calls for 65,000 vessels and an additional 15,000 miscellaneous small craft, including rubber boats and rafts.

The Navy already has produced 20,000 of these landing craft, Under Secretary Forrestal disclosed, ranging from 450-foot dock ships to amphibian tractors, many of which have seen invasion service in Guadalcanal, Africa, Attu, Kiska, Sicily, Salerno and Tarawa.

This'll Put You Straight On That Income Tax Filing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—Maybe you've heard somebody say:

"I'm glad I won't have to file an income tax return this year. That's all taken care of now by the employer."

Or—

"I paid half my 1942 tax last March and June, and then they forgave all but one-fourth of it, so I've got some credit coming."

Both are wrong.

These seem to be two of the most widespread misunderstandings about the Federal income tax law.

Other taxpayers who may be in for a jolt are those who say, "I won't owe much if anything in March" or "the government's going to owe ME money."

Here's the situation:

With the exception of men and women overseas or at sea, everybody who had money taken out of his pay in 1943 for federal income and victory taxes, or who owed a tax on 1942 income, or who made as much as $500 if single, or $624 if married, in 1943, needs to file a final 1943 return by March 15—if only to apply for a refund.

The payments made last March and June on the 1942 tax have been applied instead, in the average taxpayer's case, against the 1943 tax. Congress decided to cancel 75 per cent (or a minumum of $50) of the individual's 1942 or 1943 tax, whichever turned out to be lower, and to collect the bigger tax in full.

That means that in the average case, there's 25 per cent of the 1942 tax still to be paid—half of it this March, the other half next year.

BACK FROM HELL . . . By Burris Jenkins, Jr.

MARINE FIGHTER PILOT GORDON H. HODDE- HOLLIS, L.I.- HE FOUGHT AND BLED FOR HIS COUNTRY
BURRIS JENKINS JR.
"HODDE FOLLOWS THE ZERO UP IN THE LOOP... HE LOOKS TO BE A DUCK... HODDE TAKES HIS TIME..."
FAINT FROM LOSS OF BLOOD, HE HOLDS THE STICK WITH HIS KNEES REACHING BETWEEN HIS LEGS TO CLAMP OFF THE SEVERED ARTERY WITH BOTH HANDS..."
"QUICKLY HE CONTACTS THE STATION — 'CORSAIR TO TOWER—EMERGENCY LANDING—CLEAR STRIP—'"

HE DIDN'T know he was hit until he saw blood spreading on the cockpit floor . . .

That was in the middle of the dive, because he didn't wait to look back when the Jap tracers flicked past his head but nosed straight down, his Corsair wide open and closing in at 500 m.p.h. There was no use looking back to see what hit him. He got three Japs. One got him. That's fair enough . . .

At 5000 feet, Gordon Hodde, of Hollis, L. I.—he was flying Marine warrant officer then—begins to pull out slowly, afraid of blacking out, but still the faintness grows in his head. Maybe it's gravity pull, maybe it's loss of blood . . .

He eases out at 3500 feet with the skyline dancing crazily and manages to reach some clouds, still without looking behind. If a Jap is following it doesn't help to know it.

In the temporary protection of clouds, Warrant Officer Hodde takes stock of his chances. They're not good. The bullet hole in his left leg below the knee cut an artery. He knows that from the way the blood spurts with the heavy pounding of his heart and the dizziness is increasing . . .

First he must set a compass course before he becomes too groggy to think. The rest of the fighter squadron—even the bombers—are far ahead of him. There is no one to follow home—home at the moment being an air base some 300 miles over open ocean away from the vicinity of Kahili on Bougainville where he happens to be now . . .

He tries to set the elevator trim-tab to keep from climbing, but the mechanism was shot away in the flight and to keep a level course without it requires a lot of pressure on the stick . . . He wonders how long he can keep it up as he grows weaker . . .

35 Minutes Between Life and Death

Once more he examines the wound on his leg and tries to put a tourniquet just below his knee with the handkerchief. It doesn't work. There isn't enough pressure even when his left thumb squeezes tight above the artery.

And then he remembers the new fighter strip.

Thank God for the Seabees! Like an inspiration he recalls hearing of this fighter strip just completed by the Seabees in record time. Maybe he can make it that far—at least it cuts the odds against him because now all he has to do is to stay awake to keep the old kite in the air for another 35 minutes. Thirty-five minutes!

The cockpit is a pool of blood now and Gordon Hodde feels himself weaker. He slides the hood back a crack and the rush of air seems to revive him, to clear the fog from his brain, to reawaken the conviction that "something must be done about that leg"—which leads the 22-year-old marine to attempt a fantastic solution perhaps never risked by any other aviator.

Loosening his safety belt and parachute harness and setting the rudder and aileron trim-tabs, Hodde takes both feet from the rudder and flies the plane with his knees—the pressure of his knees holding down the elevators.

In this way he can reach between his legs with his right hand to help his left clamp off the severed artery. The rush of bleeding slows to a slight oozing. Though his head in this position barely clears the cowling, Hodde feels now he has a fighting chance. For a while the faintness seems to leave him.

85 Hours in Air During Last 17 Days

He even finds some amusement in the thought of what the squadron would think if they could see him now. The old Hell Hawks of the South Pacific—the finest bunch of guys in the world.

And what a record—102 enemy planes shot down, eight of our own missing. Eight? With him, it will be nine if he doesn't make it . . . Well, he'll have to make it for the sake of the record . . .

If only he wasn't so tired. The last 17 days have been something —85 fighter combat hours in 17 days . . . and one day of 11 hours! That's as much as a man can take. But then the whole squadron, short of pilots, has almost flown itself into the ground since the big tour started on June 30 . . .

He wonders how the mission made out today and what became of Capt. Cupp and the lieutenant . . . It was tough luck for him that one man dropped out of his formation at the takeoff.

That put two strikes on Hodde from the start—trying to fly two positions in a four-man formation, weaving back and forth to cover the rears of Capt. Cupp and the lieutenant, like playing shortstop and second base at the same time. That's how he came to lose them . . .

It was coming in over Kahili—the whole force of 60 fighters protecting the 40 dive and torpedo bombers, a strictly Marine and Navy show—when the Nips came at them at 12,000 feet and the fun began.

Hodde remembers seeing a Zero bear down on the captain from the right-about level and he ducks his nose inches to the right and lets go with all his guns to stop the Zero in mid-air.

It disappears under him flaming, and another comes the same way and Hodde gets him, too, only this time Capt. Cupp and the lieutenant swing off to the left and Hodde loses track of them.

Wherever he looks there are two Allied planes on every Zero tail. In modern big league fighter tactics everything is teamwork and Hodde feels suddenly lost without his teammates.

Flier Centers Jap Plane in Sights

He tries unsuccessfully to join up with another Corsair but there are Zeros in between, and suddenly there's a Zero out in front of him just turning up into a loop and from Hodde's position he "looks to be a duck."

Hodde has plenty of speed and pulls up in the loop with him. The Zero seems to be stalling and Hodde takes his time, centering him in the sights, and then he blows the Jap to pieces.

Rolling out of his loop for an Immelman, Hodde sees this other Zero coming down on top of him making an overhead run, firing his guns at the same time and Hodde ducks quick with hard right rudder and pulls the stick back as the Jap goes flying past heading straight down.

Hodde takes his last quick look behind him, doesn't see a plane in the sky as he turns for home, and it's then the tracers come out of nowhere from the left rear as Hodde throws the Corsair into a dive to feel that dull thud in his leg on the way down.

It was a great show, the Marine thinks now as the miles of ocean roll under him and the blood oozes from his leg and his hands become frozen with the pressure. Maybe somebody saw his three Zeros go down and they'll add that to his three probables when they send his record home to his wife and folks.

Most of the time his eyes are inside on the compass and the instruments and his leg so it's almost a shock when he looks out to see the fighter strip coming in dead ahead about 3000 feet below.

"Well," he thinks, "I got this far."

Quickly he contacts the station —"Corsair to tower—Emergency landing—Clear strip." He hears the unemotional reply, "Tower to Corsair—Use east end if possible."

"East end!" thinks Hodde, hunched over the stick, his knees aching with the effort. "All I hope is I come in right end up!"

He doesn't remember exactly how he does it—"just pulling back with my knees early to sort of mush in over a mound of dirt by inches"—but he lands in the "most perfect three-pointer I ever made."

The C. O. comes running over to him but before he passes out Warrant Officer Hodde and (perhaps Lieut. Hodde by this time) taxis the plane off the strip "to be out of the way if another plane comes in," and then cuts his switch and faints. . . .

The men drag him out and carry him on a stretcher to the aid station where blood plasma brings him around. The flight surgeon digs out the 7.7 bullet and in five days Hodde is all right—except he can't walk on his left leg.

They didn't let him know for some time that he wouldn't get back to his squadron.

And now that he's home here with D. F. C. and Purple Heart he doesn't mind so much.

"I guess we did our share," he says. "On that raid last July 17 alone, our force knocked out 48 Zeros while the bombers sank five ships. I'm glad to get back to hear about it . . ."

Wounded Yanks Return

Clouds No Protection—Taken from a Flying Fortress during a raid on the German port of Emden, this striking photo shows Yank bombers dropping their bombs through a solid cloudbank on the targets below. A new bombardment technique makes this type of bombing possible.

Capped—Barbara Akers, Simmons senior, caps Laneya Heath of Auburndale in ceremonies at the school . . . as 24 juniors in the school of nursing there were capped in preparing to leave for a two-year tour of hospital duty. Maj. Kathleen H. Otto, ANC, director of nursing service, First Service Command, looks on.

Hospital Ship—Pfc. Cecil Norman (left), Clarksburg, West Va., chats with Gunner's Mate Norman Chaput of Pawtucket, R. I., in a ward aboard the U. S. Army hospital ship Acadia, which has arrived with wounded from the fighting fronts in North Africa and Italy.

A Star in His Eyes—Newlyweds Bunny Waters, filmstress, and Johnny Green, orchestra leader and composer, are caught by the candid cameraman at Hollywood's Somerset House restaurant, where the tall glamazon, familiar to Hub night-clubbers, removes a speck of dust from her husband's eye.

Neighbor Canada Acts While We Talk

THE CANADIAN MINISTER OF PENSIONS AND NATIONAL HEALTH, Mr. Ian MacKenzie, has contributed an article to The American Magazine describing the efficient and comprehensive program for the care of war veterans now functioning in the Dominion of Canada.

This is a matter on which Canada is in a position to give the United States many valuable pointers and specific guidance.

The United States has merely TALKED about an adequate program for veterans.

Canada has such a program, and a very thorough one, IN ACTION.

It would be exceedingly wise for the American people, and particularly for the American Congress, to appraise the Canadian program and emulate its successful features.

Mr. MacKenzie's magazine article establishes a sound basis for such appraisal.

It puts a warning sign, for instance, upon the first pitfall of veterans' welfare legislation into which the contemplated American program is in danger of falling, and which Canada has avoided.

That is the pitfall of CASH HAND-OUTS.

Canada is giving mustering-out pay to veterans very generously, and the United States undoubtedly will and should do so.

But as Mr. MacKenzie emphasizes:

"Cash grants are not the BASIS of our system."

He points out that most governments, including Canada and the United States, provided cash grants in some form to veterans after the last war. But, as he says:

"At this point governments in the old days were FINISHED with a veteran, provided, of course, that he was able-bodied.

"At this point Canada's plan of rehabilitation and re-establishment BEGINS."

Hospitalization is provided throughout the first entire year in civil life for the discharged veteran if his need for it arises from ANY cause, and for his entire life if there is a service connection. Allowances to his dependents are similarly provided.

The able-bodied veteran, or the veteran restored to health, receives "out of work" benefits and family allowances FOR WHATEVER PERIOD HE IS UNABLE TO FIND SUITABLE CIVILIAN EMPLOYMENT.

And Canada stresses the word "suitable" in that connection. It does not want men taking up farming who will make a botch of farming.

"We shall urge returning veterans to look before they leap," says Mr. MacKenzie.

If a veteran wants to resume an education interrupted by the war, he is assisted by the government. If he wants vocational training, it is provided.

If a veteran wants to establish a home, or set up in farming or business, he is given assistance by the government.

The summation of the obligation the Canadian government assumes to the veteran is succinctly stated by Mr. MacKenzie.

"We will make him self-sufficient BEFORE we release him . . .

"If we can fight a world war—a war of destruction—and still flourish as an economy, WE CAN FOOT THE BILL FOR OUR HEROIC DEFENDERS."

Canada is unquestionably out in front of the United States in meeting its responsibility to returning veterans.

This is due in part to the fact that Canada has been in the war longer than the United States and thus was confronted by the problem sooner.

But it is due mostly to the prevailing inaction and indecision in the American Congress.

Let the American Congress MEET its responsibility now.

Be Careful and Cautious

THIS IS the season of "Happy New Year." It is a popular salutation. But few persons tell the recipients of their good wishes how to achieve a "Happy New Year."

The rare person who does is Bennett Moore, vice-president of the Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. He says:

"With everyone looking to 1944 as a Victory Year, not unmindful of potential staggering losses on far-flung battle fronts, it is tragic to contemplate a toll of death and injuries at home—in our factories, offices, dwellings and on our highways—which may exceed our battle losses.

"But it can happen. Remember that on the recent anniversary of Pearl Harbor, the Seventh Column had claimed 152,000 victims at home against 23,000 Americans killed on all war fronts in the same two-year period."

The Seventh Column is CARELESSNESS.

Not even the home is safe. In the year just ended more than 30,000 persons suffered fatal mishaps there.

Perhaps we would do well to revise our New Year's greetings and instead of saying "Happy New Year," wish all whom we meet a "Careful and Cautious New Year."

On the Side . . . . .

If there were dreams to sell,
And the crier rang his bell,
What would you buy?
—THOMAS LOVELL BEDDOES.

IF THERE were dreams to sell right now, I think the greatest demand would be for the dream that brings a husband or sweetheart home from the war and puts him in a little blue heaven with a wife and several kiddies and one dog . . . "You haven't told us what you had for breakfast for a long time," complains a New York customer. I would have, but this annoys a fellow in a place called Tujunga, Cal., so much I have been afraid to mention it, thinking the repetition might cause him to break a couple of blood vessels. "Who the so and so cares what you eat?" He starts his telegrams of protest and goes on from there with a very fancy line of insults. I think he may have something there at that. Anyway, I'll skip the breakfast and tell you what I had for dinner. Something listed on the menu as "Mammy Hannah Fried Chicken and Corn Pone." Was nothing sensational. Country's best fried chicken is found in Baltimore, Md., and vicinity.

SIDELIGHTS: Capt. Clark Gable deserves all the praise he is currently receiving. But let's not forget Lieut.-Comdr. Robert Montgomery, the first film star to enlist in the armed forces and who has seen considerable action on the fighting fronts. Incidentally, just before he went off to war, Bob was on his way to be the best actor in Hollywood . . . You never hear of a hotel or other place being set afire by a lighted cigar that had dropped from some sleeper's hand. Cigar smokers don't smoke in bed.

PASSING BY: Ted Lewis. Whimsical veteran band leader. His band seems to have a little more brass in it than formerly. However, the dance rhythm is as good as ever. Who was the first band leader to sing the chorus of a number being played by the band? That is, to do what is now known as "the vocal." Was it Ted Lewis? . . . Michael Reilly. Holder of one of the world's most responsible jobs. Nobody but a man of unusual courage and iron nerves could handle it. He is chief of the White House Secret Service. He is responsible for the safety of the President at all times. Mr. Reilly is only 32 years old.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Popular-priced automobiles were built to last 75,000 miles easily. How much mileage have you had on your bus? I had only 30,000 miles on mine when I sold it . . . Recent addition to the how-to literature is "How to Keep a Diary." It is interesting to keep a diary. But a man who is friendly with a girl who keeps a diary may some day unexpectedly find himself in an embarrassing position . . . "All Women Cooks" is sign often seen on restaurants. That wouldn't sell the place to me. As far as professional cooks go, men are the best. However, when a woman manages a restaurant the food is served better.

"Just a minute, I'll find out if the Colonel needs anything!"

DOGS: "There isn't enough money in the world to buy him." That's what most of us say when asked if we would sell our dog. Most of us, however, have never been tested. Bud Lewis, a California newspaperman, was offered $2500 for his dog when it was a puppy. He refused it. Man making the offer said: "You're crazy." Said Bud: "That's what you think." The dog in question is the grandfather of my dog.

FAST TRAIN: Have traveled on the Super Chief and the Union Pacific streamliners but the fastest train I ever traveled on was one that ran from Cannes, France, to Nice, Italy. It was described on the timetable as an "Auto-Dynamique." It averaged 90 miles an hour. Often went over 100. The power was furnished by an automobile engine. After the war, our railroads should have some of these "Auto-Dynamiques."

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—You made the grade on what the football score, 33 to 33, reminded you of. Dartmouth vs. Yale is correct. Now how about the baseball score—26 to 23? A—That's easy, too. Was a game between Chicago and Philadelphia. Chicago won. Was in the nineteen twenties, not long after the last war. Don't be surprised that I know the answer. I was a baseball writer for a short time. That was the softest newspaper job I ever had. Worked from three to five in the afternoon . . . Q—Have you any other readers named Dacia? A—We have Diana, Diane, Delia, Deborah, Dorothie, Dora and also one named Delight, but you are the first Dacia. Take a bow, please!

PLEASE NOTE: There is an acute scarcity of pajamas, according to a dispatch. Doesn't worry me. When I had pajamas, I only wore the coat. Now I have sleep coats.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, SUNDAY—I reached Washington again on Friday morning, entertained a distinguished group of educators at lunch, caught up partially on my mail, and entertained part of the White House office staff at tea. I kept several appointments during the afternoon. One was with Dr. Isaiah Bowman, and I found it particularly interesting and pleasant. It is a joy to talk to someone who really clarifies your thinking because he, himself, is so clear.

Mrs. Grenville Emmet and Mrs. June Hamilton Rhodes arrived in the afternoon, also my niece, Miss Amy Roosevelt, with a friend from Swarthmore, and Lieut. and Mrs. James Lanigan. Lieut. Lanigan is just back from months spent aboard ship in the South Atlantic. This is the first chance I have had to meet his wife since they were married a short time before he left. He has a few days' leave and then will go to school in Miami for a while.

WHEN ONE realizes how many young people are going through this experience one wonders at the flexibility and the power of adjustment shown by youth today. I was brought up on the theory that the first few months of married life were always difficult, and much depended on how two people learned to live and work together in those first weeks. But now there is no time for a quiet adjustment, and I think it is remarkable to see how many young people are carrying on with courage and cheerfulness under such trying circumstances.

FROM GREAT BRITAIN, I have just received the first volume of the second series of war pictures painted by British artists.

This one is done of women with an introduction by Laura Knight. The actual paintings must be most interesting, as they show the women at work in the war effort.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 10—Frank Sinatra has practically a new play in "Room Service," which the Marx Brothers made about five years ago and spoiled with their slapstick antics.

It was a swell stage play, but by the time the Marks finished with it its own author wouldn't have recognized it. Charlie Koerner tells me he has borrowed Gloria De Haven to play Frank's girl friend—and won't the "Bobby Socks Brigade" be jealous of petite, pretty Gloria when Frank sings just to her.

The Sinatra lineup includes not only Gloria but George Murphy, Adolphe Menjou and Walter Slezak—not a bad list for anybody's money.

IN SPITE OF Billy Wilder's funny crack that he is the surviving genius of the Para lot, now that Preston Sturges is gone, he'll get competition from John Farrow for those "genius" honors. Joking aside, Johnny is going great guns as a top director and he snags one of the most important Paramount productions of the year in Dana's "Two Years Before the Mast." Buddy De Sylva feels that Farrow, who was a commander in the Royal Canadian Navy until he became ill, is just the boy to make this film, a rousing adventure yarn of the sea which will be filmed in technicolor with all the trimmings. Incidentally, there's plenty of enthusiasm on the Para lot over Farrow's handling of "The Hitler Gang."

IT TAKES a lady a little time to catch her breath after 64,000 miles of touring overseas bases entertaining our boys. But now that Anna Lee has had a little rest after that seven months' jaunt, she's not only ready but able to think about movies again. Today I learned Anna has been signed for one of the top femme roles opposite George Sanders in "Strange Confession." A U. A. picture which Seymour Nebenzahl will produce. The Lee charmer hasn't made a movie in a long time—not since "Hangmen Also Die."

SPENCER TRACY is refusing all movie assignments for three or four months, and it isn't because he is pouting. Had tea with Spence and Signe Hasso, his leading lady in "Seventh Cross," and he told me he wants to devote that time to visiting camps. "I worked on 'A Guy Named Joe' for 11 straight months and you can't go on tour with retakes, extra scenes and work hanging over your head. When I visit camps the next time I want to feel I don't have to hurry back." Spence doesn't say where he is going.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Not many people know that before Louise Allbritton took off for London in the same troupe with George Raft she almost eloped. The attractive gentleman who nearly talked Louise into taking the sudden plunge into matrimony was Lieut. Chester Thomas of the Marines. If it hadn't been for this trip coming up right away, Louise might have said "yes" and become a Las Vegas bride. But at the last minute they talked it over, and since they had known each other only a couple of weeks decided to wait until she returns.

"MAMA'S BANK ACCOUNT," Kathryn Forbes' story and Harriet Parsons' first for RKO, goes into production next month. Harriet has been huddling daily with her boss, Sid Rogell, on methods of handling this enchanting story which will star Katina Paxinou. Mildred Cram, author of "Forever," is writing the screen play. Katina, by the way, is still the choice of most people to win the Oscar for the best femme supporting role as Pillar in "For Whom the Bell Tolls."

GARY COOPER made Cobina Wright, Jr., happy by bringing back a message from Palmer Beaudette, whom he met on his travels in the South Pacific; Martin Mooney is paging Ray Bolger for "Minstrel Man" for P. R. C.; Ann and Jack Warner are back from New York to stay awhile, we hope. Joy Ann Page, Ann's pretty daughter, met them at the train; Doris Dudley has changed the name of her oldest boy to Bide Dudley Jenkins after her father, who passed away last week. Bide was always disappointed that neither of the grandsons were named after him.

Society Girls Busy on Home Front

By BETTY ALDEN

IT'S STILL a man's world, I guess, but this is certainly a co-ed war. At any rate women are doing everything they can to help win it.

In addition to the many Boston society girls overseas with the Red Cross or in the WAC, WAVES and other services, many of whom we have discussed here, we constantly hear of gals who are doing interesting jobs at home to keep the cogs of the war machine rolling.

Here are a few of the players on the girls' team for victory:

Jane Rice of Weston organized and is running a neighborhood nursery school to take care of the children of her friends in nearby homes. At first glance this may not seem like war work but its purpose is to permit the neighborhood mothers to do volunteer Red Cross, hospital and other war work while their younger children are being well taken care of, and it achieves its purpose. Jane has turned one big room in her mother's house into a schoolroom where her 10 toddler charges play games, listen to stories, sing and keep busily occupied all morning.

Mrs. Thomas Woods of Chestnut Hill who used to be a constant helper in the smooth running of the Avery lectures and other fashionable benefits, is now helping to turn out precision parts for radios in a local factory. She is on the early shift which means her alarm clock goes off at the crack of dawn every morning.

A quintet of peppy and attractive post debs who get together for luncheon every day in Cambridge includes Ann Clarke, Patty Matz, Natalie White, Jean Jouett and Sally Arnold. They all work at the Underwater Sound Laboratory but the exact nature of their jobs is secret.

A NUMBER of South Shore society girls who used to turn to Dad when they wanted a fur coat or new dress, are now enjoying the thrill of earning their own living. Harriet Wilson, who started out as a volunteer at the Red Cross Blood Donor Center, now receives a salary for her secretarial job. And Lilian Warren of Hingham, her sister deb of last winter, is a secretary at the local shipyards. Lilian studied voice at the N. E. Conservatory and was one of the most popular entertainers in the impromptu song fests at last year's deb parties.

HARRIET WILSON—enjoys secretarial job at Blood Donor Center.

Lone Yank Brings in 19 Nazis

WITH THE AEF ON THE ITALIAN FRONT, Jan. 9 (delayed) (AP)—Pvt. Billy Miller, 21, a fast-talking doughboy from Peoria, Ill., hoodwinked a German lieutenant and 18 enlisted men into believing they were surrounded and then marched them single-handed to captivity across 600 yards of no man's land.

Pvt. Miller pulled off the exploit when he went into action for the first time Thursday night. Surrounded by 50 Germans, Billy and his mates had to surender.

A platoon of 19 Germans took charge of Billy. In a cave where they put up for the night, the Jerries started talking about taking him back to a prison camp. The lieutenant, who spoke English, told him what they were saying.

"You'll never make it," said Billy. "We've got you surrounded. Listen!"

Gunfire crackled outside. They spent the night there.

Next day the fighting was still terrific, so the German platoon moved only a short distance farther back, this time to a farmhouse in the valley behind the hill. They drank some wine and found some bread," but you could hardly stick a knife into it," Billy said later.

They asked him if American bread was that hard.

"Oh, no," said Billy, who used to be a doughroller in a Peoria Army biscuit bakers. "American bread is all fresh and soft."

The Germans looked at one another.

Next day the tall German lieutenant insisted that the time had come to try to contact other German outfits. Billy looked out the window.

"I tell you we've got this place surrounded," he said. "Come outside and I'll show you."

They stepped outside and Billy pointed to the movement on the hill. The lieutenant stepped back inside, talked to his men a moment, then came back to Billy, unbuckled his pistol belt and handed it to him.

"You are not our prisoner now," he said. "We are your prisoners."

So back across no man's land, the five-foot five-inch doughboy led the column of prisoners.

PEORIA, Ill., Jan. 19 (AP)—Billy Miller, the Peoria lad who talked his 19 German captors into surrendering, was "practically born with a gun in his hands," but he has a different kind of hunting to do now.

That is what his mother and father said when informed of their "quiet" and "timid" son's exploit. The news left Roy, the father, "shaking like a leaf," and Billy's mother was so excited she said she couldn't think.

Lake

It means Dilboy Field, where we used to play football, or the Mystic Lakes, where we swam or skated, or maybe a late hamburger at the Greek's."

Crispo's is a fair formula for most of the soldiers on this ship, and on all the broad flung transports of this convoy—each concerned for his individual patch of sky and bit of firmament which, when fitted together, makes the mosaic we call America. These kids don't talk in grandiose terms like "Democracy" and the "union of mankind." They just see Nahant with its sun-flecked rocks like Corp. Henry Kelly of Bass Pt. rd., or Shrewsbury, Mass., like Pvt. Weldon Everett Collins of Bayview dr., or the surf spilling on the beaches of Old Orchard, Me., like Lieut. Lee K. Abbott.

David I. Walsh C. H. Doolittle

Speaking of the name Collins, remember goose-loose, gangling Ray Collins, who pitched for the Red Sox circa 1912-16, during Bill Carrigan's early ministry? Old Ray's son, Capt. Raymond W. Collins, Jr., is the transport medical officer on board—a heavy-browed, scholarly versions of his heavy-browed, big-boned sire. Another son, Warren, is a prisoner in Germany.

A Hitler Sick Aboard

I might add, from my own personal experience on this voyage, that this is a different medical war than the last one, when C-C pills and iodine were the universal nostrum for any ailment from fleas to shingles.

Capt. Ray, Jr., and his staff have been wrestling the flu, fever and shakes with sulpha compound, and to their great credit, have got a firm toe-hold on contagion, which at one time, was on the way to do a grand job for Hitler. Even the ship's provost marshal, Maj. Paul Hitler (no kidding) came down with a septic throat.

Add to the noted name department on board, that of Col. Doolittle, Clifford H., former teacher coach at Spencer, Mass., High, who sends wife Dorothy greetings, and a reminder not to forget to mail the basketball scores. Also, that of David I. Walsh of Russell rd., Somerville (no relation.)

This boat is by no means a New England monopoly, being peopled by a cross-section of the 48 states —kids which war's circumstances have culled from everywhither of the national crazy quilt. So finding the New Englanders started as a tedious task; until the grapevine carried the message that "a newspaper guy from Boston is looking for you jerks."

Then they began to come voluntarily, in ones, twos and trios. It turned from a chore into a frolic, for there was a hungry eagerness among the lads to get their names on record, as a kind of fingertip touch with the familiar past, and a bridge across the receding miles. There was Joe Lynch

Abe Bickelman

Paul W. Lyons

John P. Murphy

of Wedge st., Lowell; Corp. Mitchell Delage of Ormand st., Worcester; Corp. John P. Murphy of Cushman rd., Brighton; Abe Bickelman of Greendale st., Dorchester; Lieut. Eugene L. Watt of Church st., Newton; Paul W. Lyons of Langley rd., Newton Center, and so on.

Tax Expert There

Let those self-appointed custodians of American democracy at home, who have hollowed about race bigotry, take this ship as a sample of the confraternity existing within the Army. For on this ship there is a large sprinkling of Negro troops, who are taking equal pot luck with the whites, and among whose officers, (both black and white) is a young Dorchester lieutenant, Francis Xavier Sheehan, Jr., from Ashmont ave., Dorchester. Frank is an old friend, who used to help the writer with the mysteries of income tax.

From this writer's sizeup of the colored quarters, there is more cubic footage per capita of breathing air, better sanitation and more comfortable mess facilities than their colleagues of pallid complexion have. Thirteen of the enlisted Negro men had cabins. Their colored officers messed on the same social plane with the white officers, and were treated with courtesy due their rank. I mention it, not as a phenomenon, but as an incidental fact.

The dining salon, stripped of the pre-war tinsel and gilt, is now only a hollow mockery of culinary vanities, which used to add layers of lard to the moneyed tourist trade. The only remainder of the former splendor on the menu is the use of such supercilious terms as "Supreme de Cod Regilieuse" and "Delicos de Cod Gloria," still by any other name just plain boiled codfish, which doesn't fool a New Englander worth a cuss.

The insipid food (who gets those lease-lend beefsteaks?) isn't the fault of the kitchen mess officer, Lieut. John Maloney Martin of Newport, R. I. Johnny, a prematurely gray young man with a blue Irish eye, used to shoot baskets for Jim Keeney's Rhode Island Staters. What he does here is to keep the kitchen traffic going and the mess contingents from telescoping each other. He never got closer to cookery before coming on board than a ham-swiss-on-rye at Ned's Coffee Shoppe in Kingston, R. I. So they made him poohbah of the pantry.

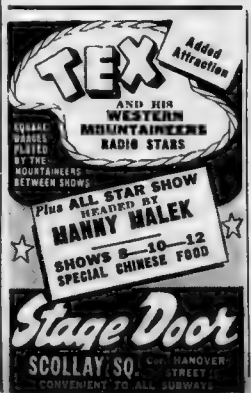
"I wuz thinkin'...."

by Izzy Ort

FLASH! In fact, DOUBLE FLASH!!!—Me boys across da seas didn't fergit ole Izzy Ort, nor me Grill and El Tropico Room! Coz up to today I've received more than one hundred Christmas cards from boys in overseas service, and dey're still coming in! Amongst 'em you'll find O'Keefe, King, Maher, Flaherty, Mahoney, Keenan, Greenwald, Conways, McAulife, Granath and even a few service gals, too. Come in and see dese cards, if you wanna git a idea ov wot da boys think of yers trooly and his place ov bizniss! . . . MORE FLASHES ! ! Served 560 Christmas turkey dinners to men and women in service uniforms, which amounted to over 700 pounds of turkey . . which is another reason why me frens don't fergit me and me Essex Street Home of Fun even when dey are in Egypt, India, Britain, or what-have-you. Next Christmas I expect some cards from da occupational forces in Berlin and Tokio, and if buyin' MORE WAR BONDS will do it, I'm gonna do my share! How about you? . . . And if you fokes are wonderin' wot makes me Grill and El Tropico Room so popular wid da boys (nuthin' like pattin' yer bizniss on da back!) jess come in and see fer yerself da swell floor shows which rank wid Boston's best, and note in particular da friendly and hooray-whoopee spirit which is da thing you'll like best about me Essex St. spot. Advt.



Nahant Flier Lost in Raid

Lieut. Joseph F. Stanford, 27, of Fox Hill rd., Nahant, is missing after an air raid over Greece on Dec. 14, the War Department has notified his wife, Mrs. Geraldine Lannon Stanford.

A veteran of 20 missions in the Italian campaign, Lieut. Stanford has been overseas since September. He graduated from Lynn Classical High School in 1935 and was employed by the General Electric Co., before entering service.

Besides his wife and a 10-month-old son, Lieut. Stanford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stanford, are his brother, Lawrence, and a sister, Mrs. John Crowley, all of Nahant.

GEORGE GIVOT looks serious here, but is convulsing the customers at the Shubert in Michael Todd's magnificent "Mexican Hayride."

TAMARA GEVA and John Emery in a serious moment of Ernest Pascal's "Peepshow," which comes to the Plymouth tomorrow evening.

MARGARET SPENCER, soprano, of "Rosalinda," successful revival of the Johann Strauss operetta, coming to the Shubert on Jan. 24.

RAYMOND JACQUEMOT, who plays Count Tarnitz in "The Student Prince," now in its final week at the Boston Opera House.

KATHRYN DUNHAM, whose dances electrified blase Gothamites, in "Tropical Revue," booked for the Opera House on Jan. 17.

Tonight

WILBUR — "THE CHERRY ORCHARD," a new translation of Chechhov's comedy by Irina Skariatina and Eva Le Gallienne, with Joseph Schildkraut and Miss Le Gallienne co-starred. Katherine Emery and Carl Benton Reid head the supporting cast, which includes Stefan Schnabel, Eduard Franz, Rex O'Malley, Leona Roberts, Lois Hall, Elizabeth Eustis, A. G. Andrews and Stanley Phillips. The producers are Caryl Wharton and Margaret Webster.

Others in the cast are David Wayne, Mary Howard, Dwight Weist, Lionel Monagas, and Elizabeth Dewing. It has the original Dixieland Jazz Band and Bobby Capo the Bing Crosby of South America.

January 21

SHUBERT — "ROSALINDA," the Johann Strauss operetta revival, after two successful seasons on Broadway. The Boston company will be exactly the same as that now in New York. Erich Wolfgang Korngold has made the musical arrangements and Felix Brentano staged the production.

WILBUR — "DECISION," by Edward Chodorov, author of "Kind Lady" and the screen version of "Lady in the Dark." The story concerns an American soldier returning home from the African campaign, and it will be enacted by Thomas W. Ross, Gwen Anderson, Merle Madden, Kim Spalding and others.

Beauty Help for Dry Skins Fashion

IF THE BLOOM OF YOUTH is to be preserved . . . an excessively dry and supersensitive skin condition needs extra special beauty care . . . It must be combatted vigorously . . . for it is an advanced condition . . . needing care above and beyond the ordinary routine of applying a cream.

It needs that extra helping of rich dessert . . . like an underprivileged child needing additional nourishment. It needs a super-fruitful emollient . . . particularly blended for this extraordinary condition . . . to re-invigorate and re-animate the died-up and older tissues . . . and return softness to the face.

When you have a cold . . . you increase your fluid intake by gulping quarts of water and fruit juices. The same holds true of the supersensitive, excessively dry and older skin. Extra special treatment beyond the daily application of a dry skin cream is needed.

Every cosmetic house has one choice product of which it is especially proud . . . It catapults them to undisputed beauty fame . . . for around this product their high-priced chemists develop beauty aids which bring distinction to the sponsors . . . and gratifying satisfaction to the users.

This house has made it comparatively easy to overcome such an advanced skin condition . . . by creating this inimitable unguent . . . a rare cream compounded from imported oils and costly herbal extracts by a hand-whipped process . . . and it works miracles in giving that extra lubrication and preservation of transparency of the skin.

Pat It Lightly Into Skin

It is a preparation of unusual merit . . . because the manufacturer has given this type of skin unlimited consideration . . . evolving a product that, like magic, becomes fluid in texture when contacting the warmth of the skin . . . penetrates to the derma tissues . . . and immediately releases dryness.

It is a hand-whipped unguent . . . in which the rare essences and soothing and vital oils are solidified . . . thereby concentrating the goodness that can be transmitted to the face when used.

All you do is pat it lightly into the skin . . . allowing a thin film to remain overnight. If your skin needs additional nourishment . . . if it hasn't responded satisfactorily to simple dry skin cream . . . then you need this full-course beauty meal rolled into one. You need this extra beauty treatment . . . a few times weekly . . . in addition to your regular beauty routine.

With February just a few weeks away . . . with days of advanced winter the hardest on our skin . . . this unguent is both medicinal and necessary to give youthful vibrance and petal-softness to the face.

For the name of this unusual supersensitive skin aid, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, except the week-end, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

GOING SOUTH? Or do you have early plans for next summer? At any rate . . . take a good look at lovely Paulette Goddard . . . and her shapely figure in this sun outfit . . . a costume that would even make King Sol sit up and take notice. From the cartwheeled, air-holed sun hat . . . to the jeweled sandals . . . the outfit forefells a heavenly comfort from torrid weather. The dress . . . a simple cotton . . . is border-figured with splashes of rich, riotous color . . . with one motif transplanted to shoulder effectiveness.

USE OF A HAND-WHIPPED unguent . . . compounded of rare essences and soothing oils . . . will aid . . . like magic . . . the supersensitive and excessively dry skin. It is a vigorous combatant against fading facial bloom of youth . . . It is one of the choicest beauty aids on the market for this special skin condition. Lovely Lynn Merrick of Columbia pictures . . . has the kind of skin every woman longs for . . . one reason for her exquisite beauty.

Adopted Baby Shower

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

A married couple, who are very dear friends of mine, and who have no children, are adopting a 6-month-old baby within the next month. Do you think it would be proper for me to plan a baby shower for this "newcomer" to their home? If you approve, do you think it would be better to give the shower before or after they get the baby? R. L.

I think this is a beautiful plan, and I am sure that it will make the adoptive mother mighty happy and proud that her friends are welcoming the baby in this felicitous way. I think it would be very much better to give the shower after the baby has arrived "at home." And how about pooling the shower-gift moneys and give the baby a war bond?

Refuses to Pay Board

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I'm the mother of seven children, three of whom are unmarried and living at home. Two daughters married service men and live at home with us. One gives me part of her allowance toward expenses, but the other one eats with us and never pays a penny for board. And if anyone says anything to her she becomes angry. I have one son in the service, but he's married.

What shall I do? My husband mistreats me because the second daughter won't pay board, and I'm not able to go out and work or I surely would. Everyone seems to be saving money for after the war, but they don't care what happens to mother and dad. I feel as if I can't go on much longer. Please help me through your column. W. M.

Your son in the service may make an allowance to you, if he wishes to do so, and will have to contribute only $5 out of his salary toward your allowance. The alloawnce for the Class "B" dependents of a married service man is $37 a month, under the new law.

What sort of a man is your husband who mistreats you because his daughter will not pay her board? After consultation with the proper authorities, I suggest that you write to the girl's husband and tell him her refusal to pay board creates distressing conditions in your household, and urge him to pay you an allotment (not an allowance).

It has been suggested that you call a family council and have in your minister or your priest, your daughter's former schoolteacher and members of the family who are willing to share expenses and try to awaken in this girl a sense of responsibility. It's absurd that the selfishness of one member should disrupt family life.

Camisole Is Dressy Now

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THE NEW cult of fashions that is gaining a lot of converts in the South right now is one where a girl goes in for looking bare and brown at the top.

The way she does this is by wearing a dress, or shorts, that are very scanty above the waistline. And this brings into prominence an item of Victorian underwear which in 1944 is used as the upper half of a dress or a one-piece short. It is the camisole, which in the dear, dead, modest days of 1900 was used for a corset cover, and never, never saw the light of public day. Now the camisole top is getting around for all the world to see.

What it looks like Miss Dulin's sketch shows. Here a camisole of cotton has two skirts, one a long dinner skirt and the other a short play skirt, made of the same material. So it is supposed to be worn all day and far into the night.

Letters From Her to Him

Girls, if you're only a "girl friend" of a serviceman . . . not his fiancee . . . write to him just as a friend. Overdoses of sentimentality in your letters may make him so uncomfortable that he may give you and his correspondence with you the "brush off." Make that "you" you put in your letters the "you" he expects and wants you to be.—MRS. BEECKMAN.

Pot Roast Is Grand

By MARTHA LEE

BEEF IS BACK in good supply, beef to catch a good cook's eye. Ration points have been reduced—more good news. Have that longed-for steak if you've points put by to buy it. But remember, that good old pot roast hits the same high score as steak for the important food values—the B vitamins, high quality, complete protein and essential minerals found in all meat.

It pays to know the different cuts that make good pot roast when you go to market. There's more than one good meaty cut to make the dish. Try the rump for the good meat and rich brown gravy that's a pot roast. It's a triangle-shaped piece of meat with the knuckle bone removed. Or you can buy the rump rolled and tied for pot roast with the bones removed.

Heel of round is more pot-roast makings weighing 3 to 5 pounds. Chuck makes a good flat pot roast. Choose the blade or round bone cuts for chuck. Another flattish cut for pot roasting is the brisket that features layers of fat and lean.

Flat, round or triangular as the cut may be, all go through the same simple process to become a pot roast. A heavy iron or aluminum kettle best does the trick. Heat it until very hot; add 2 tablespoons lard or meat drippings. Dredge meat with flour, if desired. Brown well on all sides. Season. Add a small amount of liquid, not more than a cup. Cook it slowly—that's the secret—to simmer out that wonderful, rich beef flavor. Cover closely, turn down heat, and cook until meat is tender.

Some cooks prefer to slip a rack under the meat before covering to keep it from becoming too brown. You'll probably have to add extra liquid from time to time to keep your slow-simmering pot roast properly moist.

Pot roasts boast as many variations as all the meat dishes. Find a choice of ways to serve it here together with second-day ways to have this favorite beef treat.

TOMATO POT ROAST

2½ to 3 lbs. beef chuck or rump
2 tbsp. lard 1 tbsp. salt
½ clove garlic
2 cups tomato sauce
5 potatoes 5 carrots

Brown meat slowly in lard. When well browned add tomato juice, salt and garlic. Cover tightly and simmer until tender, approximately 3½ hours. Add vegetables 45 minutes before done.

SPICY POT ROAST

4 lbs. heel of round or rump
1 qt. water 1 pint vinegar
12 cloves 2 bay leaves
1 tbsp. salt 1 tbsp. sugar
Flour Lard
2 cups diced carrots
2 cups sliced onions

Combine vinegar, water, cloves, bay leaves and seasonings. Pour over beef and let stand overnight. Pour off liquid and save. Dredge meat with flour. Brown in hot lard in heavy kettle. Add 2 cups of the spiced vinegar, the carrots and onions. Cover and cook slowly about 3 to 3½ hours or until tender.

POT ROAST

5 lbs. rump, round, or chuck beef
1 onion, sliced
Flour, salt and pepper
2 cups boiling water or tomato juice
1 tbsp. butter or margarine
1 tbsp. flour

Wipe meat with cloth, dredge with seasoned flour, and brown in heavy kettle on all sides in its own fat with the sliced onion. If fat is lacking on meat, use bacon fat or suet. Add water or tomato juice, cover, and simmer over low heat about 3 to 4 hours, until tender. Turn meat occasionally. Add more liquid during cooking if necessary. Remove meat to hot platter. Cream butter and flour together and stir into hot liquid. Cook, stirring constantly, until gravy thickens slightly. Serve with potato pancakes or mashed potatoes and buttered carrots or onions. Makes 6 servings for one meal, with leftovers for serving cold, or for hash or meat pie for next day's lunch.

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Jan. 10—Intimates will bet you that the Donald Nelsons soon will figure in the headlines. Also that he'll resign before long . . . Michele Morgan and Jack Haley are soooo unhappy about the billing in the film "Higher and Higher." Sinatra is billed below them, as their contracts insist, but it's advertised above the title as "The Sinatra Film" . . . Because of new and (to the public) unrevealed evidence on the "premeditation" angle, the D.A. has decided not to accept a plea in the Lonergan case . . . That rumpus in the Broadway Theater lobby was caused by two irate Southerners who got into "Carmen Jones" by mistake. They were ejected.

RAYMOND SCOTT and his manager, Alan Best, have parted . . . El Borracho, the comparatively new boite, is one of the big clicks of the season. Though tiny, it grosses $10,000 a week . . . Rube Goldberg became a grandfather (via his son, Lieut. George) on New Year's Day . . . Sailing Baruch, Jr., who left town hurriedly to avoid being involved in a local unpleasantness, found the trip extremely profitable. He made a fortune (around $60,000, they say) on the horses in Florida . . . Judy Garland's illness cost her 12 pounds. She may have to undergo a major operation . . . Nancy Kelly hasn't left her suite at the Pierre. Influenza. Kathryn Grayson has it, too . . . The Vincent Prices (Katherine Emery) have Reno in the bean-o.

PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE uses her A-card to buy gasoline to clean her frocks with . . . There's an extreme shortage of butter and onions (of all things) along the coast below Washington, D. C. . . . Tommy Dorsey and a clarinetist had an argument right on stage at the Paramount the other day in the middle of one of Gene Krupa's drum solos. Tommy apologized to the audience, saying the clarinetist had used naughty language . . . A radio commentator is developing a series of quirks that have his wife tearing her hair. He's forced her to give up smoking, wants her to adopt a new religion and has the Longchamps restaurant at 7th ave. and 41st st. keep a special set of dishes for his personal use.

BARTENDERS' salaries are hitting a new high in the cafes. Many are asking—and getting—$60. a night . . . Ted Lewis' New Year's present to the Hurricane crew was a hot tip on a daily double. Every one played it heavily—and that night (the horses were still running) the waiters were so mad they refused to applaud the show.

Star Shine

By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 10—The studios have a language all their own which is used on the sets while making pictures. Studio language is not a static thing. Like jive talk or Broadwayese, it constantly changes. Hollywood has its own basic English; clear, concise, colorful.

Deanna Durbin

I was on the set of "Christmas Holiday," looking at Deanna Durbin do a scene when the call went out for "spaghetti." It wasn't an eating sequence. The "spaghetti" wanted was film for the "coffee grinder," which is the camera.

There are many more colorful descriptions used by the carpenters, electricians and "grips." The perambulator on which the camera is mounted is a "dolly," and the assistant cameraman riding the "dolly" is the "jockey."

When a "grip" needs a hammer to hang a picture, he doesn't call for a hammer; he asks for a "beater." Spotlights are referred to, according to size and type, as "broads," "seniors," "babies" and "inky-dinks."

The chief electrician is the "gaffer." His first assistant is the "best boy." A panel of dark cloth mounted on a stand to curtail the amount of light used in a scene is a "gobo," and if the "gaffer" has to reach up to adjust the "gobo," he stands on a foot-high box which is referred to as an "apple crate." If he has to get up higher, he calls for a "two step," which is not a dance but a ladder. If he needs to go still higher, he uses a "three step."

THE LONG ARM reaching out to hold the microphone over the performers on the set is a "boom," and the sound man using it is the "boom monkey." When the cameraman wants a "grip" to get out of camera line, he shouts, "Get that guy muffed out of here."

And that's exactly what Cameraman Elwood Bredell said for Director Robert Siodmak was ready to film the scene, and only Deanna Durbin was to be in it.

After the scene was shot and the "take" ordered printed, Director Siodmak said to Miss Durbin: "This picture may become notable because of this scene alone."

Deanna didn't get it. It had been a very simple scene. All she had to do was to be in bed asleep, open her eyes, stretch, sit up, letting her hair fall down over her shoulders. That's all there was to it. So, she asked Director Siodmak, "How come?"

Director Siodmak replied," When you awoke, your hair actually looked like you have been asleep all night. You are, no doubt, the first movie actress in the history of Hollywood to awaken on the screen and not look as if you had just come from a beauty shop."

WALKING ABOUT the various movie sets, I notice the way the war is beginning to affect the movies in many little ways. They may not be noticeable on the screen, but they are making the studio technicians work harder and become inventors.

On the set of "Till We Meet Again" Ray Milland and Barbara Britton are doing a courtyard scene. The studio used their last ton of rubber gravel for this scene. The rubber rocks are used so the microphone will not pick up the heavy footfalls of the players and interfere with the dialogue. The technical boys are now developing a plastic gravel.

Boston After Dark

IT'S A GIRL for Mrs. Sheldon H. (Dorothy) Fairbanks and her popular sportsman-husband . . . The infant, who will be named Joan, and Mrs. Fairbanks are doing well, at the Richardson House . . . The arrival came in ample time to permit Mr. Fairbanks, to concentrate on the final touches of his massive annual Sportsmen's Show, which opens Thursday at the Boston Arena.

MONDAY MORNING MUSINGS: British and Australian fliers and seamen make a beeline for the piece goods department of Boston stores when their ships put into port here, according to Women's Wear, the journal of the garment trade . . . British tars bought as much as $80 worth of yard goods at one time, mostly luxury types of rayons and cottons which they cannot get at home, even "if they had the necessary ration coupons" . . . The story in Women's Wear says that American sailors and soldiers swoop down on jewelry counters when they go shopping in Boston . . . But the mention of piece goods being under rationing in England points to another direction in which we in the United States have not yet been called upon to "take it" as strenuously as the people of Churchill's hegemony.

THE MEXICAN STAR named Sergio de Karlos, whom Mike Todd found in Mexico for a small role in "Mexican Hayride" is getting offers to double in New York nightclubs . . . He's playing there at the Oval Room . . . Lieut.-Col. Pat Hanley, former coach of Northeastern and Boston University, is getting the action he fought to get when he joined the Marines . . . Pat's age threatened to keep him side-lined at a desk, but the Marine bosses finally gave in to his pleas for combat service . . . He saw violent action in the Southwest Pacific.

Now Pat is off again to the front, friends in Boston have learned . . . But a post-war probability in Pat's case is that he will not resume football coaching in the East . . . He and his brother Dick, who coached Northwestern and is also a lieutenant-colonel in the Marines, started life in Spokane, Wash., where the family was friendly with the Crosbys (Bing, Bob, Everett, etc.)

PAT WORKED HIS WAY east . . . He came to Boston first as coach of the Haskell Indians . . . Since the war, Lieut.-Col. Hanley has been renewing acquaintance with Western friends . . . He has been a neighbor (between battles) of Bob Crosby, and the two have become close pals again . . . One good offer to coach a West Coast college has been made the popular Pat already . . . Boston University may be expected to swing into action in an attempt to get Pat back . . . There has not been a more popular coach in this area.

SENATOR DAVID I. WALSH places a high appraisal on the intelligence and character of Cong. Phil Philbin, the old Harvard football player who is a neighbor of the senior senator from Massachusetts . . . Senator Walsh, in an informal talk, linked Cong. Philbin with Judge Frank Donahue as the men among his friends who had "the best grasp of public affairs" . . . Judge Connolly of Brighton undoubtedly would have been added to the small list, to make it a trio . . . But the judge happened to be present when Senator Walsh was chatting.

STEFAN SCHNABEL, of the cast of "The Cherry Orchard," which opens tonight at the Wilbur, is the son of Arthur Schnabel, the concert pianist . . . Arthur Schnabel has been starring at the keyboard in all the Carnegie Halls of America for more years than one can remember . . . Young Schnabel was entitled therefore to a smile when a bright young publicity woman, seeking biographical data about the actors in "The Cherry Orchard," contributed her part to the following dialogue: . . . "Are your parents in America?" she asked . . . "They are," answered young Stefan . . . "And what does your father do?" was the next question . . . Stefan told her that his father is a pianist and had played at the Carnegie Music Hall many times . . . "That's fine," the girl answered breezily . . . "I'm always glad to hear of a refugee getting on so well."

RUBY FOO WILL GIVE a party to her physician, Dr. William H. Hite, tomorrow night . . . Dr. Hite has been commissioned . . . Jack Chan, maitre d' of Ruby's Den, has taken himself a vacation after years of steady duty in the busiest Chinese restaurant in the country . . . Benny Fields closes tomorrow night at The Mayfair, and Boston won't see him again until he has finished a Hollywood contract . . . Imogene Coca, a dainty little comedienne who was featured in "New Faces" on Broadway, is doing a bright burlesque entitled "A Shubert Operetta" at the Satire Room . . . Her repertoire, including a parody on a fur-fashion show, is the material best fitted to the name of the Fensgate tiny cocktail lounge since Arki-Yavensonne opened the spot two years ago.

Joe Louis Fears Bout With Bivins or Murray

By JACK CONWAY

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 10—The two greatest active heavyweights in the world, according to Larry Atkins and other Cleveland boxing folks, are Jimmy Bivins and Lee Q. Murray. Bivins and Murray are going to engage in a return tussle here. Bivins received a questionable decision in the last meeting of this pair of mitt wielders.

Joe Louis realizes better than most people that he would be a dead pigeon if he were to meet either of these colored ring stars in his first title defense bout. This is why the Brown Bomber would like to clash with Billy Conn when he returns to the ring.

Joe Louis

"Conn has been inactive like myself," Louis told me recently. "Army routine does not sharpen one up for boxing. I would not care to clash with an active heavyweight like Jimmy Bivins until I first had two or three tuneup matches.

Narrow Squeeze

"I ALSO BELIEVE I would draw better against Conn than if pitted against anyone else. Conn and myself, Mike Jacobs tells me, would draw $1,000,000.

"Billy had me beaten in our last bout until the 13th round when I nailed him with left hooks to the jaw and body. I threw punches faster than at any time in my career as I beat Conn into submission. It was a narrow squeeze."

Boxing has been doing well here. Larry Atkins looks upon a $30,000 to $50,000 gate as normal when he has a fitting attraction.

Ollie Downes also does well with his amateur shows for the medical center. Jack and Bill, two Cleveland war millionaires, buy 1500 to 2000 tickets for each show and give them to their employes. George Freeman and Mike Conroy of the Irish-American A. A. would appreciate that kind of customer.

Thistle Downs Track

THISTLE DOWNS, a mile track, is located 12 miles from the heart of Cleveland. The handle during the past season averaged $275,000. This is almost twice the size of the pre-war handle.

Randall Park, another mile track, is situated across a highway from Thistle Downs. It has a fine plant. The owners of Randall Park would like to see a leading race track operator like Lou Smith take it over. Just now Lou is busy trying to organize a new track at Rumson, N. J., and he hasn't time just now to take on a track here. In post war days, Smith may come to Cleveland where he would receive a warm welcome.

Thistle Downs operated successfully by offering moderate purses and by keeping its general plant overhead down.

This area is rich in defense plants and as a result there is plenty of fresh money for the noble breed of bettors.

Indians Trying to Build

THE CLEVELAND INDIANS are trying to fill the gaps in their lineup caused by the war. Lou Boudreau has given up hope of completing a deal with the Red Sox that would have sent Heath, a hard hitting outfielder, to the Yawkeymen. Boudreau will look in other directions for a trade.

The Indians are already planning for baseball's post-war period. It will lay stress on youth.

This has always been a tough town for the manager of a losing team. The fans and press demand a winner, and are not very charitable in making allowances for injuries, the difficulty in getting star players in the open market and the breaks of the game.

Like other big league cities, Cleveland relies on week-end baseball to keep out of the red. The Municipal Stadium gives 65,000 persons an opportunity to see a baseball game and 80,000 a chance to watch a football game.

This stadium was the scene of Max Schmeling's 14-round knockout of Young Stribling.

The most exciting scene ever enacted in the stadium was Ted Williams' three-run homer that won an All-Star game for the American League.

In post war days, Boston should build a similar type of stadium. We should be prepared to have Boston a leader in the sports boom that will come when peace has been restored.

A stadium with a seating capacity of 100,000 would be none too large if Frank Leahy's Notre Dame eleven were to come to Boston to battle Boston College or Harvard.

Hub District Sixes In 4 Arena Games

District members of the Boston schoolboy hockey conference were to swing into action for the first time this afternoon with four games slated for the Arena ice. In these, Roslindale faced South Boston; Hyde Park tangled with Brighton; Jamaica Plain met Brandeis Vocational and East Boston tackled Charlestown.

Cortez May Force Clayburne in Hub Bout

Jack Clayburne takes on Man-Manuel Cortez, former boxer from Spain, in the main bout of the weekly wrestling show at the Arena Wednesday night.

Although Clayburne has gone undefeated since his local debut last fall, Cortez' style of offensive promises plenty of trouble for Jack.

Ted Prefers Marine Fighter Pilot Berth

By HUCK FINNEGAN

PENSACOLA, Fla., Jan. 10—Break through the crust in Cadet Ted Williams and you'll find as savory a dish as ever touched your palate. As we stumbled along in the Naval Air Station's "brownout" in search of food, a little brown pup kept nipping at our heels.

"That's Scuttlebutt," laughed Ted. "Sleeps on our floor. He belongs to everybody. Here, Scuttle, old boy," and Ted picked him up and stroked him: "Come on in and we'll give you something to eat."

Ted led the way into a canteen, cafeteria style. Sandwich counter at one end, soda fountain at the side and booths enough for 50 or 60 persons. British, Australian, French fliers and sailors were there nibbling a bacon-and-egg on roll, or gargling a soft drink.

TED SERVES

"They serve beer here," said Ted. "First post I've been in where they did. Want some?"

"No, let's eat."

"Sit down here," he said as he picked three or four glasses from a table top and deposited them at the fountain. "Don't tell me what you want because we have to take what we can get. What'll you drink, coffee or a milkshake?"

In a few minutes he came back with a chocolate frappe, coffee and two plates. On the plates were hamburg steak—no gravy, no ketchup—a dash of lettuce with mayonnaise and french fries. Two slices of bread apiece, no butter. And I knew him when he had steak for breakfast. (The dog got a good portion of his hamburg.)

"Gee, I miss baseball," he admitted. (Last winter at Amherst he said he might give up baseball altogether, he was so crazy about flying. But he hadn't missed a season then.) "You know I get the feeling sometimes that I'll never get the chance to play it again. When I looked at my roomies, I realize I'm no kid. They're all 20 and 21. I'm 25. And this war won't be over in a hurry.

TIME ATHLETE'S FOE

"I was reading Raymond Clapper today, and he was telling how tough it was going to be to dig the Japs out of those islands where they have land-based planes. I've felt that all along. This might last for four years yet, and what kind of a ball player will I be then?

"You know something?" he challenged as he tossed another scrap to Scuttlebutt. "I won't be satisfied with this life until I get myself a Zero. I'm not fooling. Boy, I thought I got the thrill of a lifetime when I hit that three-run homer in the '41 all-star game (A. L. 6, N. L. 5). Downing a Zero would cap that a hundred times. Lousy Japs, attacking Pearl Harbor and spoiling everything."

Would he get the chance to fly in combat? Perhaps, when and if commissioned, he might be made an instructor.

"Yeh, I thought of that," said Ted. "You know we're due to be commissioned here late in March or early in April. Classes graduate twice every week, honest! Every Tuesday and Friday. Operate on the stagger system. Anywhere from 85 to 150 get their wings at each graduation. Sure turn 'em out fast.

"I attended one of the graduations when I first arrived (Dec. 7). Boy, were those fellows proud! Well, anyway, when we move to Whiting Field (3 weeks hence) we apply for the type of flying we want—bombers, fighters, observation, etc.; also whether we prefer Navy (ensign) or Marines (lieutenant.")

What was his choice?

"The Marines," he answered, "and I'll tell you why. You don't pick your spots there. Orders come from Washington in a sealed envelope. You don't know, nobody knows what's to become of you. But in the Navy you have a selection—that is, if you can make it. And if I wound up an instructor the wolves would say: 'I knew it. In the bag. He'll never leave the country.'

"That's why I want to make the Marines. I'll have no say in the matter. They can send me to the southwest Pacific, anywhere they wish. And whatever they do I'll have a clear conscience.

"Ted Williams, Marine lieutenant, flying a fighter. Boy, wouldn't that be something?"

It would indeed. Officers down here are rather proud of Williams. Say he's a grand pilot, tends to his knitting all the time. He has a fine chance of making the grade. There are few washouts here. The Navy knows long before a cadet reaches Pensacola whether he has the makings or not. If Williams didn't have it, he wouldn't be here.

"I love to fly," he continued. "Had my first taste of formation work this afternoon, and it was fun. You realize I've had over 150 hours in the air already? Yes, sir! Thirty-five at Amherst, 115 at Bunker Hill (Ind.) and 16 here. We're flying some pretty heavy ships now. Let's go over to the hangars and I'll show you the different planes I've flown.

"Come along there, Scuttlebutt," he barked, and the unholy three walked out into the night as a distant radio caroled "Silent Night, Holy Night."

WOULD FIGHT IN JAP SECTOR — Ted Williams smiles with glee after a training flight at the great Pensacola air base. The Boston Red Sox slugger is highly praised by his superior officers and the indications are that his wings will be forthcoming in a few months and then he hopes to see real combat service. A large group is commissioned here every week, says Ted.

LASTING PEACE SHOWS CLASS AT HIALEAH

By HORACE WADE

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Jan. 10—Hialeah Park swung wide its gates on Friday afternoon, but the important news was the first appearance under colors of the 2-year-olds over the three-furlong Nursery course.

New England will be uncommonly interested in the youngsters within a few weeks when Lasting Peace, daughter of Johnstown-Melodiana, faces the starter for the first time.

This is the good-looking filly named by Yankee racing fans in a contest sponsored by the Boston American, and which shows every indication, on early trials, of more than fulfilling the hopes of her connections.

By far the most interesting phenomenon of Lasting Peace's world are the other horses working out in the morning. After a siege of sickness induced by a touch of shipping fever, the filly was completely awestruck upon her introduction to glamorous work-out hours.

Some few of the sights and sounds startled her momentarily, such as the clang of the starting bell and the flight of a band of horses out of the barrier. With uncommon thoroughbred intelligence she has been quick on the "savvy."

Lasting Peace may become a good one. Certainly nature endowed her daddy Johnstown with every fine thoroughbred quality—and then in a fantastic quirk nullified it with a rare weakness.

Second only to El Chico in his 2-year-old form, Johnstown emerged as a 3-year-old to become the most-talked-of horse of the season. Lop-eared and a trifle sway-backed, this last characteristic he has passed on to many of his get, and Lasting Peace shows the same slight drop over the haunches that distinguished her sire.

In the paddock he was far from prepossessing in appearance, lazy and sleepy until he caught sight of the blinkers which he always wore in the fighting. He then became a transformed animal, vivid with life and fire, eager and anxious to meet the foe. His 3-year-old victories started off with the Paumonok Handicap, which he won by six lengths, following this up by shattering a track record which had stood for 14 years.

The Wood Memorial was next, an eight-length win to fit him for his greatest test—the Kentucky Derby. That Bluegrass classic was never really a race. Johnstown had things well in hand throughout, pouring on his speed through the stretch to win in hollow fashion, pulled up.

B's Reel Under Loss of 4 Aces

By BILL GRIMES

In the last 10 days the Bruins have lost the most important cogs in their machine, Bill Cowley, Jack Crawford, Don Gallinger and Bep Guidolin. They also lost both ends of a home and home series with the Toronto Maple Leafs, which, naturally, is of secondary importance in comparison to the loss of manpower.

Bill Cowley, who is the leading scorer of the N. H. L. with 52 points, crashed into the boards Saturday night, during the third period and suffered a separation of his right shoulder. "Cowboy" Bill will be out of action for at least three weeks. His shoulder was wired yesterday at a Toronto hospital and he's now at his home in Ottawa, where he will rest up for a fortnight.

EGAN NOT IN SHAPE

Manager Art Ross expects Jack Crawford to be back in the line-up Saturday against the New York Rangers. But, when the Bruins' star defenseman was released from the Boston City Hospital yesterday, Dr. Donald Munro stressed that under no circumstances would he sanction Crawford even skating for at least two weeks. Apparently, due to recurring headaches, Dr. Munro isn't fully satisfied that Crawford has completely recovered from the head injury he received playing against Toronto a week ago Saturday.

When he left Boston, with "Flash" Hollett Wednesday, Don Gallinger, center on the Sprout line, held high hopes that the deferment he had asked the RCAF authorities for, would be granted. But, the army didn't see eye to eye with the young Bruin and "Gallie" was inducted into the armed forces.

Mgr. Art Ross admitted that he wasn't impressed by Pat Egan in Toronto. He stated that Egan isn't in shape, due to the fact that he had not seen much service with the Red Wings. However, Uncle Arthur took the first steps to get Mr. Egan in condition, (Just as soon as he was convinced that the Bruins were going to get a real shellacking from the Leafs) by not sending out relief for his latest acquisition.

With Don Gallinger through for the duration and Bill Cowley and Jack Crawford on physical disability furioughs, probably until the first of February, the Bruins are in a bad way. They've had three former Olympics in the lineups for the last three games, and a fourth, Tommy Brennan, is listed to play against the Rangers Saturday night at the Garden.

SHAKES UP LINES

Because of the one week break in the schedule, Mgr. Ross allowed many of his players to go home Saturday. They will not report here until Wednesday or Thursday. Pat Egan will be in Wednesday. He returned to Detroit after the Toronto game and will leave the Motor City tomorrow night.

Mgr. Art Ross has shaken up his three lines. He has assigned Art Jackson to Bill Cowley's berth as play maker for Buz Boll and Herb Cain and has moved Norm Calladine from right wing to center ice on what remains of the Sprout line, which now comprises of Bep Guidolin, who has been out of two games with a pulled groin muscle, and "Busher" Jackson.

The second replacement trio of forwards is an all ex-Olympic line, Al Palazzari, Rus Kopak and Tommy Brennan. Although they are good prospects, it's a question if Palazzari, Kopak and Brennan are ready for N. H. L. competition.

Art Ross had his chin up when he returned home but it was quite an effort. He didn't see Les Canadiens hang that 13 to 4 defeat on his Bruins but he did see every one of the dozen tallies the Maple Leafs scored. And, then to lose Bill Cowley and Don Gallinger, his only play makers, was one of the worst experiences in Uncle Arthur's hockey career.

STEELER BOSS HITS PRO GRID EXPANSION

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10 (AP)—If the National Football League wants to know what Bert Bell, co-owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers, thinks of expanding the circuit to take in sunny California, all it has to do is ask Mr. Bell. He is ready to talk—but plenty, as they say in sporting circles.

"It's not good judgment in my mind to even consider an expansion, and it won't be good judgment until the war is over," says Bell.

"Los Anglese may be a very good city," he said magnanimously, "but say you'd go there and play on a Sunday and had a game in Philadelphia the following Sunday. Know what would happen? You'd lose in Philadelphia.

"The players would be bruised up and on a train for three days where they couldn't work out the stiffness and get those whirlpool baths. You'd get in Philadelphia Wednesday night and you'd have only three days to limber up."

Rites Tomorrow for Duffy Lewis' Mother

A requiem high mass will be sung tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. at St. Gabriel's Monastery, Brighton, for Mrs. Mary Lewis, mother of George "Duffy" Lewis of the Braves.

Mrs. Lewis, who was 85, died on Saturday at her Alameda, Cal., home.

Pics Tame Falcons In Rough Ice Game

Boston fans were treated to some rough hockey with four major penalties being handed out for fighting when the Olympics chalked up their 11th straight victory by downing the Philadelphia Falcons, 5-2, at the Arena.

Byrd Loses Title Golf Lead

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10 (AP)—The tension of three days of intensive competition finally caught up with Sammy Byrd, and the one-time New York Yankee outfielder yielded the lead in the $12,500 Los Angeles golf championship to Atlanta's Johnny Bulla and Leonard Dodson, of LaJolla, Cal.

Sockin' Sammy, with a 137 behind him for the first half of the 72-hole grind, blew sky-high today and took a 75, four over par.

Bulla, now an air lines pilot operating between Atlanta and Chicago, simply couldn't do anything wrong, and he came up with a 70.

Narcus Hoop Team Tops H. C.

WORCESTER, Jan. 10 (AP)—The strong Narcus Bros. basketball team of Worcester turned back a stubborn Holy Cross outfit, 52-50, in a thrilling game which attracted a 1400 crowd here. Big George Connor, Holy Cross' great football tackle, sparked the Crusaders.

The Crusaders' uphill climb threatened to overcome the star-studded Narcus team. Connor flipped in 19 points and his last two pointer gave Holy Cross a 49-47 lead with six minutes left.

The Worcester Narcus five assumed the lead again seconds later and remained out front the rest of the way.

Grid Kick Off Rule Hit by Officials

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP) — Eastern football officials recommended that the practice of deliberately kicking off out of bounds be stopped.

Put forward in the form of a suggestion to the rules committee, the whistle tooters, at their annual meeting, urged the use of a tee for high kickoffs. If the kickoff still goes out of bounds they would have the receiving team put the ball in play at midfield, instead of the 35-yard line as at present.

MILLIONS HERE EXPECTED ATTACK

It happens every year. There is always a time when it seems like everybody has a cold attack. At this time be prepared and remember Penetro, a salve with modern medication in a base containing same kind of old fashioned mutton suet grandma used. Works 2 ways (1) Warming vapors comfort cold-congested nose and throat; (2) Stimulates circulation right at spot where rubbed on. 25c. Double supply for 35c. Always demand Penetro.

Take every drop of waste kitchen fats to your meat dealer.

Write Your Congressman Protesting Neglect of Discharged Veterans

Date _____

HON. _____

MEMBER OF CONGRESS,
CAPITOL BUILDING,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

I call on you to support legislation that will provide mustering out pay, clothing and hospitalization facilities for discharged service men immediately upon their return to civilian life.

I wish to register my protest against the neglect of wounded, disabled and mentally sick men of the armed forces who have been discharged without any provision for their care and treatment.

I petition you, as my representative in Congress, to do all in your power to see that those who fought and bled to preserve the American way of life will be assured the necessities of life upon their discharge from the armed forces.

This is urgent! Please act now!

Sincerely,

776 Casualties Aboard—The former Boston passenger vessel Acadia, of Eastern Steamship Lines, now an Army hospital ship, comes into an east coast port festooned with life rafts . . . bringing back 776 casualties from the European-Mediterranean theaters of war. Some of the wounded wave from the ship's decks. See below . . . STORY ON PAGE 4

Walking wounded and stretcher cases arriving aboard the Acadia wave happily at the photographer just before they were taken ashore. Several New Englanders arrived on the ship.
